WEDDING AT WHITE HOUSE THIS EVENING

SECRETARY MCADOO AND HIS BRIDE

Miss Eleanor R. Wilson, 14th Bride of the White House, Weds Sec. of Treasury W. G. McAdoo—To Wear Necklace of Diamonds

WASHINGTON, May 7.—With a plain place in the historic Blue Room, the circle of pure gold, typical of the quiet elegance of the ceremony, Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, youngest daughter of the president of the United States and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, will be married at 5 o'clock this evening in the White House, to William Gibbs McAdoo, secretary of the treasury.

The simple and impressive wedding service of the Presbyterian church will be pronounced by the Rev. Sylvester Beach, pastor of the church in Princeton, N. J., attended by the president and Mrs. Wilson and their family. The ceremony, while it is to be notably elegant in all of its appointments, will be witnessed by the smallest company that ever attended so important a function in the White House. The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, the members of the cabinet and their wives, relatives of the president and Mrs. Wilson, and of Secretary McAdoo, and a few intimate personal friends of the bride and bridegroom, comprise the list of guests.

FALL OF MEXICO CITY IN MONTH PREDICTED

United Constitutionalist Forces to Hammer Simultaneously at Gates of Huerta's Stronghold—Victories of Rebels Great Blow to Dictator

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Carranza's attitude toward mediation, which temporarily at least has eliminated the constitutionalist chief from general negotiations aimed at settlement of Mexico's civil war, was declared to have been revealed today by his official report of a vigorous rebel military campaign marked by significant victories. His declaration to submit his country's internal troubles to preliminary negotiations was based in part at least on rebel successes in a successful southward movement, constitutionalist representatives said here today.

While Carranza parleyed with the South American envoys over details of their proposals, three powerful forces were hurled against federal strongholds. Reports of the results of the movement Carranza transmitted to Rafael Zubaran, interior minister in the constitutionalist cabinet now in Washington. Summarized today, they were: Defeat of 20,000 federals at Toluca, near San Luis Potosi with the capture of 1,500 prisoners and quantities of arms and ammunition. Capture of Acapulco, Tepic, 1700 men surrendering. One million rounds of ammunition and quantities of arms taken. Capture of 10,000 guns, artillery and ammunition from fleeing column that evacuated Monterrey.

No Casualties Mentioned

The Carranza representative did not outline to what extent his forces opposed and no casualties on either side were mentioned.

After receipt of his chief's report, Minister Zubaran was emphatic in a forecast that within the next month the rebel armies would be investigating Huerta's capital. Villa with his victorious Torreon veterans it was believed would strike next at Saltillo and in the event of a victory there, that he would hurl his forces at Tampico. Capture of that city would give the constitutionalists a port of entry unaffected by any limited embargo on importation of arms now enforced along the Rio Grande.

Minister Zubaran today estimated that more than 10,000 rebel troops were now in the field. Villa, he said, had 14,000 soldiers in central Mexico. Gonzales 15,000 men threatening Tampico and Obregon 15,000 troops operating on the west coast. The rebel ministers outline of the disposition of Carranza's forces was aimed at dissipation of the general federal force. The United States that the rebel army consisted mainly of Villa's forces in Chihuahua. He asserted that Zapata's rebels were co-operating with the constitutionalists south of Mexico City.

General belief was expressed that Carranza hoped to contain the campaign until the three powerful forces converged to hammer simultaneously at the gates of Mexico City. To what extent Huerta would be able to combat the proposed advance and what possible effect it might have on mediation proceedings between the United States and the Mexican federalists was widely discussed here today.

Tampico People Favor Peace

An interesting sidelight on events at Tampico was shown today in the report of the American consul there transmitted to the navy department by Rear Admiral Mayo. On May 1 the Mexican government announced through General Zarco that an armistice had been agreed to by the federal government and the United States and also by the constitutionalists, the report stated. The reason for the armistice was given out here as on account of mediation. This news was received joyfully and even hopefully by the general public, which appears to be in favor of peace if secured with honor and dignity to the Mexican government. The Americans and their money are sadly missed, and responsible persons would greatly favor a peace arrangement which would permit the wheels of business to run again.

From that report was supposed to have originated rumors that the federalists and rebels had arranged a suspension of hostilities about Tampico. Navy department advisers today stated that heavy firing heard near Tampico Tuesday forenoon had quieted.

Envoys Continue Work

While reports of Carranza's successes were discussed here today, the South American envoys went ahead with their arrangements for the holding of the preliminary negotiations near the Canadian border May 8. With a retinue of secretaries they will leave Washington May 14. Huerta's three representatives are expected to reach Puerto Mexico from the federal capital on their way to the United States today.

The United States mission is not expected to be announced until later this week.

While Brig. General Funston had been authorized to extend his lines at Vera Cruz for defensive purposes if that became necessary yet the situation there today was reported to remain unchanged. No further reinforcements have been ordered to the American port and there was no indication that General Wood intended to go to the front to take supreme command of the American occupation forces.

Navy Aviators

The navy department today issued a report describing work accomplished by the navy aeroplanes at Vera Cruz. "The first way in which the work was done is typical of the navy aviators," the report said. "After making a record in getting away when ordered into service from Pensacola, the Mississippi, under the command of Lieut. Commander H. C. Mustin, arrived at Vera Cruz at 9 p. m. Friday, April 24. At daylight the next morning the Mississippi anchored in a berth assigned by Admiral Badger and five minutes after the anchor was dropped Lieut. Bellinger was in the air in a flying boat and making a scouting trip. Both aeroplanes on board were ready the night before and could have immediately taken to the air. It was necessary, however, to report to Admiral Fletcher on shore and get his orders for scouting.

"The next day, Sunday, a station on the beach inside the breakwater was established and flights were made daily. Railroads, bridges and the Mexican troops were located. Portions of the railroads were found torn up. It was definitely determined there were no mines in the harbor. Lieut. Sandley and Ensign Stutz were the assistant aviators to Lieut. Bellinger and made maps and reports."

CARRANZA IS "PEEVED"

THREATENS TO THROW UP JOB BECAUSE VILLA DEPOSED CHAO AT CHIHUAHUA

JUAREZ, Mex., May 7.—Angered by Pancho Villa, because he had deposed Gen. Manuel Chao as military governor of Chihuahua, General Carranza threatens to resign as first chief of the constitutionalists and to quit the revolution. Refugees arriving from Chihuahua bring the story, which is actually confirmed in Chihuahua despatches.

General Chao, the deposed governor, is said to be in prison in Chihuahua under sentence of death. Trinidad Rodriguez has been made military governor and has deposed Silvestre Terrazas as secretary of state and appointed Augustin Labanstadt to take his place.

WHIST PARTY AND MEETING

The regular meeting of Industry Council No. 1722, Royal Arcanum, was held last evening in Odd Fellows Hall. Regent A. E. Rountree presided and a large list of important business was transacted. Two applications for memberships were received. At the conclusion of the meeting an enjoyable whist party was held and a large number of members and their friends sat down and passed two pleasant hours at whist. Suitable prizes were awarded to the lucky ones. The committee in charge of the affair were as follows: A. E. Rountree, chairman; Darvey J. Chase, James J. Dean, J. W. Sharkey and T. J. Dowd.

ALMOST A DISASTER AT MIDDLESEX DEPOT

Electric Car Stalled on Tracks in Front of Incoming Express—Twenty-five Passengers Leaped for Lives—Car Barely Saved

A very narrow escape from what might have been a serious disaster occurred at the Middlesex street crossing at the Northern depot this morning, when an electric car was stalled on the tracks in front of the incoming 7:55 train from the north for Boston.

As the car had got half way over the crossing the power, for some reason, failed, thus leaving the car stalled and the crew helpless to move it.

At this moment the gang at the gate-man's shanty began to flag, indicating the approach of an incoming train. The conductor, evidently a man of experience, realized the danger in an instant and told the passengers to get out as quickly as possible. They lost no time in obeying the order for the word was given, "A train! a train!" "For God's sake move—rush or we are killed!"

Fortunately the car was emptied of its 25 passengers in less than three seconds without anyone being trampled upon or injured.

When the conductor quickly connected the rollers with the wire on the parallel track and was able to move the car back sufficiently to clear the crossing just as the big engine dashed past.

The passengers agreed that but for the coolness and judgment of the conductor they might have remained until too late to get out before the train arrived.

As it was only the quick action of the conductor that saved the car from being struck by the engine.

The question was asked when it was all over, "Did anybody try to flag the train?" So far as could be ascertained nobody attended to this part of the business as the gate-man was intent only on getting the car off the tracks until he would put down the gate.

ATTORNEYS FOR NEW YORK MAN WHO MURDERED FATHER, WAIVED EXAMINATION

NEW YORK, May 7.—Attorneys for Chester H. Duryea, who shot and killed his father, Chas. Hiram Duryea, a retired millionaire starch manufacturer, early Tuesday, appeared in police court in Brooklyn today and waived examination so that the case could go immediately to the grand jury.

Duryea is now in Bellevue hospital, where he was taken on Tuesday night, raving. His family and physicians believe he is hopelessly insane.

WEAR WHITE CARNATION

NEXT SUNDAY WILL BE MOTHERS' DAY AND CARNATIONS WILL BE WORN

BOSTON, May 7.—Wear a white carnation next Sunday in tribute to your mother. It is Mothers' day, the second Sunday in May, and Boston, in common with other and towns throughout the United States and many other countries, will do its share with citizens of all parts of the world to honor motherhood.

Special services have been arranged in all of the churches of the city and some time prior to Sunday Governor Walsh and Mayor Curley, following the custom of their predecessors in office, will probably issue proclamations calling for the co-operation of every man, woman and child in the community in the celebration of the day.

The day will be a holiday, yet not like Easter nor Christmas, nor like Labor day, nor the glorious Fourth. It is the holiday which every class and every race can observe regardless of religion, politics, or birthright. It asks only one thing, that you pay honor to your mother and wear a flower in tribute to her.

For four years earnest, sincere people have striven, and not vainly, to make Mothers' day a universal holiday. Governors and mayors the country over have issued proclamations announcing it and urging upon every one to join in observing it.

FOGARTY IN MEXICO

Fears for Safety of Lowell Man Who Went to Mexico Several Years Ago

There is some doubt as to the safety of Walter Fogarty, a Lowell man who was, for a number of years, engaged in the hardware business in Mexico City. William J. Egan, a member of the local fire department, will ask Congressman John Jacob Rogers to ascertain, if possible, the whereabouts of Fogarty who left Lowell in 1881, at the instigation of Antonio Madero, father of the former president of Mexico. The elder Madero came to Lowell several times for the purchase of machinery for his cotton plantation at

VETERAN FIREMEN'S BALL

ENJOYABLE EVENT HELD AT ASSOCIATE HALL WITH LARGE ATTENDANCE

The widely advertised and very enjoyable dance of the Butler Vets took place last evening in Associate hall and was in every way a grand success. The present social season has seen many remarkable gatherings, but it is doubtful if any of them has had anything on that of last night, the 16th annual ball of the association.

A very delightful concert preceded the dancing. Mr. Butler Vets' orchestra, including selections from "William Tell" and the "Butler Vets' March." The dancing floor was taxed to its utmost capacity by about 200 couples. The beauty of the ladies' gowns deserves special mention. The intricate steps of the latest dances were shown, but even the most fastidious could find nothing at variance with the high standards of good taste. The ladies were packed by periods, were thoroughly decorated, and in watching the dancing, one could not help but be struck by the beauty and grace of the women.

HENRY E. CLAY, Secretary

The ball looked particularly beautiful with its rich decorations of red and white, which were the symbols of the association. As the evening advanced, the dancing became more and more popular, and the ladies were the center of attraction. The dancing was particularly enjoyable, and the ladies were the center of attraction.

VICIOUSLY ASSAULTED

ONE OF JOHN F. SAUNDERS' MEN ASSAULTED WITH INTENT OF ROBBERY

Andrew Brown, of 39 St. James street, a teamster employed by John F. Saunders, the Graham street mar-ketman, was struck over the head with an iron bar last evening while repairing the harness of the horse which he had been driving and as a result one Andrew McMahon, who is said to have been riding with Brown at the time, is now at the police station booked for assault with intent to commit robbery.

Although the teamster received a severe scalp wound he was able to drive to a nearby house, where he telephoned to the manager of his store. His wound was then treated by Dr. Mahoney.

The alleged assault occurred on Steadman street, near the end of Westford street, according to the story told by Brown to the police. He claims that he was driving along Westford street with a number of calves in his wagon when Andrew McMahon, who is about 16 years of age, accosted him and wanted a ride. As the two were slightly acquainted, Brown agreed to take him onto the seat and everything went along all right until they had turned into Steadman street, which runs through a lonely woodland with the houses several hundred yards apart.

According to Brown's story, a piece of the harness became unfastened while they were driving along this street and he got out to mend it leaving McMahon on the seat. Hardly had he been kneeling on the ground a minute when, it is claimed, he was struck on the head. Turning around he saw the McMahon had standing behind him with an iron bar ready to hit a second time, he claims, but he called for help and this frightened his alleged assailant, who turned and ran away. Although dazed the young man managed to reach a telephone to summon help.

The police were notified and after several hours of searching arrested Andrew McMahon on Adams street, where he lives.

CHELMSFORD TOWN MEETING

Editor Sun, Dear Sir—I had the pleasure of attending the town meeting in Chelmsford last Monday night, and it is certainly amusing to see how much the people out there will stand from their presiding officer.

I have been mixed up in politics for many years, but I never saw such a shamming given by a presiding officer as was given the promoters of the new school building at that meeting. I should advise the voters to brush up a little on Cushman's Manual and find out just what special privileges are allowed men who preside at their meetings.

When a presiding officer is so anxious other to kill a measure or explain to the meeting without being asked, how much he knows, it would be a little better form, if he should appoint a man temporarily in his stead and get down on the floor of the meeting with the rest of the voters to do his talking.

Yours for enlightenment,
An Observer.

AMONG THE TOILERS

Anthony Doyle who is employed at the American Hide and Leather Co., will spend his vacation as usual in the White mountains.

Mr. Frank Young, who is the machinists' organizer, is out of the city today, but will return in time for the "ball" tonight.

The Trades and Labor council will meet tonight in their hall on Middle street. All members are requested to attend as the meeting is an important one. President Timothy Bourke will address the meeting.

Walter Lyons, employed at the Hamilton mill, is the manager of the popular South End baseball team. He avers that his team will give them all a grand showing up this season on the diamond.

Ed. Quinn, who is employed by the Whitall Manufacturing company, is some manager of sports. He managed the Lowell Five basketball team in their quest for the championship of the city. There is some good material at the C. Y. M. U. for baseball, Ed.

The hall of the Y. M. C. U. one of Lowell's leading societies of working young men, will undergo a complete overhauling in the near future. They expect to spend about $500 on a new building which, when finished, will be as up-to-date as any in the city. All of these improvements were thought out by President William King.

A lively discussion over the merits of the Lowell Textile school was overheard by the writer at a local society last evening and at times the debate waxed pretty hot. The question arose over a young man saying the teaching received at this great school of learning would be of little or no benefit to a graduate after leaving school. There were many who took the same stand, the young man took and they put up some stiff arguments until a stranger put in an appearance, a former student at the school. He told how he happened to start and told of the results achieved. The stranger said he started as a common mill hand and how he is the assistant superintendent in a large worsted mill. He said that "any man, young or old," who had a "calling for a trade work," should exert himself, wake up as he expressed it, and if he could not attend the day session to attend the night session at the Lowell Textile school. He said that results would certainly be satisfactory, and he expressed it as his greatest school of his kind in the country.

Carpenters told their... The Carpenters, local 1610 met in Carpenters hall, in the Bunches building, last evening and business of importance was transacted. Four new members were initiated and one application for membership was received. The local is planning for a big outing to be held in the summer.

President Antoni Bellefeuille addressed the meeting and his remarks were very instructive. Everything is going along nicely, the treasury being in the best financial condition of its long period of existence.

Ring Spinners and Fixers... The Ring Spinners and Fixers' union held a largely attended meeting in their hall, 32 Middle street, last evening. New members are going in at every meeting, seven being admitted last night. It was decided to run a big "smoker" May 27th in the spacious quarters of the union. The admission was fixed at 25 cents. All unions are cordially invited to attend, as the best speakers that can be procured will address the gathering. This union is on a sound financial basis, and although young is progressing rapidly every day.

Debate at Wakefield... That the Haywood Brothers & Wakefield company is having much of its work done at the Salem jail and that it has been furnishing raw material to two other penal institutions, were statements made yesterday by Harry Thwaites, secretary of the Read and Thwaites' union, a branch of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, at the state board of conciliation and arbitration.

The state board opened its hearing in the Wakefield town hall, Frank H. McCarthy, New England organizer of the American Federation of Labor, was the other witness heard at the opening session of the board that has begun an exhaustive investigation into the cause of the strike. It was stated that in its many conferences with the managers of the rattan factory the company officers told the union men that one of the chief reasons why it could not advance wages was because of its competition with convict-made goods.

About 500 persons, men and women, most of them strikers, attended the meeting in the town hall. All factions of the strikers, including the L. W. W. workers, were present at the hearing. Thwaites, armed with much technical information, opened the case for the strikers, recited his story of the strike and told of the manner in which the work of his department was done.

Fall River Bread War... A rate war on bread is threatened as a part of the campaign of the out-of-town bread manufacturers to retain their grip on the local trade, says the Fall River Herald. In retaliation, local bakers threaten to withdraw their supply of pastry if Fall River grocers persist in trading away from home. Thus, a few more chapters, with footnotes and addenda, are added to the somewhat unusual and interesting war of wares in this city. Many issues are expected to enter the conference of bakers and grocers tomorrow night in Wakefield's hall.

It is a three-cornered fight that is being waged between the grocers and the bakers in and out of the city, and a fourth element is threatened from labor sources. The history of the affair begins with the inception of a campaign on the part of the local Master Bakers' association to close the exotic bread trade, and for a time it looked as though Fall River's staff of life would be exclusively manufactured here. But there were nine objections. The Central labor union declined to endorse local made bread until the union label was carried thereon; the union label was promised; the bakers' holding in a union; but the label lingered in forthcoming; some of the Master Bakers said that other Master Bakers were cutting prices and offered to prove it; the out-of-town bread dealers refused to withdraw and threatened to flood the city with bread wagons ready to deliver the food in response to the morning roll-call from house to house; the bakers threatened to stop supplying pastry to grocers who bought out-of-town bread; out-of-town bread bakers promptly promised to supply pastry as well; the foreigners began to cut prices; then the row started. It looks now as though the lingering difficulty with the Central Labor union had about wound, inasmuch as the union label has been supplied and is being put on the bread. But it is with bated breath that the masters await the endorsement of organized labor upon the local product.

It is definitely known that three of the four big out-of-town concerns supplying bread here have virtually promised to increase their service in the bread war now any further, and claim they can practically do so. One of the largest of the concerns, operating two delivery wagons at present, in addition to its supply source where bread is called for promises to put in two more wagons and deliver bread from house to house. Another threatens to start a combine of the out-of-town bakers whereby the price of bread will be continuously reduced until the local men surrender.

Inasmuch as the out-of-town bread is a profitable proposition for the grocers, it is to be doubted if the local bakers will gain much ground at the grocers' meeting, and certain grocers who have viewed the situation from many angles are confident that the meeting will be worth the price of admission.

Transparent Aerophone Cloth... Aerophone cloth is manufactured by several mills in this country, and although the yardage demand is not large it may be expected to increase steadily, and the development of a new transparent cellulose sheeting for aerophone, opens a new field for textile specialists.

There have been several attempts to build an aerophone with the whiteness of transparent material, and in May and June of 1912 Lieut. Sturges, then at Wiener Neustadt, near Vienna, an French consultant, specially built on such lines for Captain Petroczy, formerly commandant of the flying corps in the Austrian army. This machine had the planes covered with a special variety of transparent cellulose sheets, and the system has since been developed and patented in all countries by M. Lieut. Sturges of the Paris house of Esmalite. A photograph was made of the Esmalite machine, to which reference had been made and which those present on the ground were unable to locate in the air when flying at an altitude of between 200 and 1200 feet. It is stated that at a height of 700 feet only the framework is dimly visible, and this and the outline of the motor and pilot and passengers present so small an area to rifle and gun fire that at the rate of speed at which aerophanes are flown today, accurate aiming at such surfaces becomes nearly impossible. There are also secondary advantages in the use of such transparent sheeting in the construction of aerophanes. For one thing, it enables the pilot to keep an eye upon the interior framework of the planes and to detect at once any straining or fracture of the ribs, etc. Another advantage is that the highly polished smooth surfaces reduce friction.

Instead of using ordinary cellulose sheeting, the Esmalite firm has what is termed a reinforced sheeting consisting of two layers of Esmalite with a sheet of silk tulle between them the tulle being specially treated to render it transparent.

The tulle liner strengthens the material and also prevents it sagging or warping between the ribs so that its use it is quite possible to obtain a smooth and regular surface on the planes. The tensile strength of the material is about 5 to 10 kilograms per square centimeter and a 35 millimeter sheet is sufficient to support a tensile strength of about 250 to 300 kilograms of the wire covering a stress which is never attained with the best Esmalite material does not exceed 27 grams per square meter, which is but 10 per cent. more than the weight of good doped linen fabric as generally used, so that the increase of weight in the case of ordinary material is not great.

Smooth, Hairless Skin Follows This Treatment (Cloth Tips)

Among the home beauty helps, none perhaps is more important than that which will free the skin from obnoxious hairy growths. A simple method of removing the skin's hairy growths is to use a paste by mixing powdered dolomite with water and applying for about two minutes, then rubbing off. With it comes every bit of hair and when the skin is washed, it will be firm and free from blemish. Results are more satisfactory if the dolomite is bought in an original package.

OPPOSES REPEAL OF TOLLS

Sen. O'Gorman Attacks Administration's Policy—Passage Will Compromise Country, He Says

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Senator O'Gorman, chairman of the Inter-American commerce committee, and leader of the forces opposed to the repeal of the toll exemption clause of the Panama canal act, gave the senate today the legal, economic and political reasons for his opposition.

In a three-hour speech, the senator discussed exhaustively every phase of the subject. He discovered no ground in international law which would forbid exemption of American coastwise ships from toll payment, saw behind the repeal movement the hand of the railroads and declared that a failure to impose a tax would not be called a subsidy.

The senator warned his democratic colleagues that to repeal the exemption was to violate the pledges of the Baltimore platform and to reserve the verdict of the people when they elected President Wilson last November on that platform.

Senator O'Gorman said that inasmuch as former Presidents Roosevelt and Taft, and a preceding congress approved that coastwise vessels should be exempt, another congress should think twice before giving its approval to the repeal bill, for it in turn might find itself reversed by a congress yet to be elected.

"This question of tolls," said the senator, "is but an incident in a great contest now in its initial stage, which may determine the control of the Panama canal for all time. The construction of the canal will rank among the world's wonders, but the opinion of mankind will pronounce the surrender of our sovereignty over it a colossal blunder and a triumph of British diplomacy."

"I know there is a vague suspicion that diplomatic reasons require this national abasement, but my judgment, formed and based upon such information as is available, is that the gravity of our international relations has been grossly, though unconsciously, exaggerated. The American people want peace, but they fear no power on earth. Shadows cannot disturb a brave man. They should not alarm a brave and intrepid people."

No senator questions the patriotism and high purposes of the president, but it is a question to be made dependent upon his will alone, no one can predict the mischief to which such a precedent will expose this government in future years. He believes that the passage of this bill constitutes a dishonor and a betrayal of the American people."

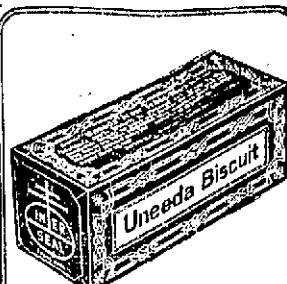

Senator O'Gorman further sought to show the exemption of American coastwise vessels is a wise economic policy; that if such vessels are toll within the terms of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, exemption does not constitute a violation thereof and that the canal has been constructed on territory over which the United States has sovereignty, while the canal, constructed in the treaty was to be built on alien soil and therefore the treaty is inapplicable.

Exemption of coastwise craft from the payment of tolls, he continued, "will reduce the cost of shipping, thereby the canal to a minimum and thereby compel competing roads in the United States and Canada to reduce their rates to a competitive basis. The more expensive you make water transportation, the more the railroads will extend to the railroads in the United States. Please do not toll on the coastwise shipping and for every dollar you collect by way of toll you enable the railroads to make a corresponding increase in their rates. It was hoped by some that the exemption to the coastwise trade might be followed in the near future by a like exemption to the foreign trade, but deny this privilege to the coastwise vessels now and you make it forever impossible to consider it upon the ships engaged in overseas trade."

"I know it is said that free tolls will simply enrich the ship owner and confer no benefit on the producer and consumer. Well, if free tolls will not decrease the cost of the consumer, improve tolls on the other canals of the country will not increase the cost of the consumer. I suppose you will make your system uniform. Perhaps this is part of a program to impose tolls on the shipping of the other canals of the country."

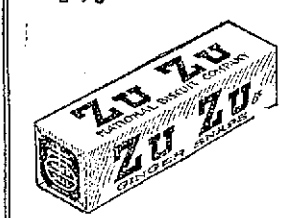

The senator argued that it is a well known principle of international law that conditions in any international agreement cease to be obligatory when the state of facts on which they were founded had ceased to exist or has been changed. He pointed out that when the United States became the sovereign of the Panama canal zone and it became United States territory, the Hay-Pauncefote treaty no longer bound the United States.

In back up this contention, the senator showed that England forfeited the Suez canal after Egypt became British territory and that when the great powers which were parties to the convention under which the canal was constructed, raised upon this same principle of international law, he said that since Great Britain recognized the American right to fortify the canal forbidden in the treaty, it had recognized a changed condition which makes the entire treaty imperative. "The treaty," said he, "must stand or fall as a whole. Under the doctrine recognized by the British government the treaty is imperative as to the newly acquired territory of the United States, and the canal constructed on American territory at Panama is no more affected by the Hay-Pauncefote treaty than would be a canal built across any other part of the soil of the United States."

The senator in conclusion declared that the provision of the treaty that the canal "shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and war of all nations" cannot be interpreted to include coastwise ships, because vessels of commerce have been defined as those engaged in international trade.

PAY 1812 WAR DAMAGES

UNITED STATES MUST SETTLE—OWES $5,000 AND ALSO 93 YEARS' INTEREST

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The American and British Claims Arbitration tribunal, which has been in session here for several months, adjourned yesterday with the understanding that it shall reassemble some time in July in Paris, when announcement will be made of decisions in some of the cases recently argued. Further arguments are to be heard on cases remaining on the docket when the commission reassembles in Washington, probably next January.

Decisions were rendered on the closing day of the session on half a dozen cases, none of which involved any new points of international law. In the matter of the claim of the Gloucester fishing schooner Frederick Gerrard, Jr., for damages sustained at the hands of the Canadian authorities through her seizure, the tribunal confirmed a private settlement that had been made on the basis of the payment of $900 to the owners of the vessel. An award of $827 was made to the Great Northwestern Telegraph company of Canada for damages to its cable in Quebec harbor by the anchor of the U. S. S. Essex.

For the alleged seizure of the British ship Lord Nelson, captured by the United States navy June 5, 1812, nearly two weeks before the declaration of war between the United States and Great Britain, the tribunal assessed $300 damages against the United States with 93 years' interest.

Because its lights in a rough sea in Manila Bay damaged the British collier Ensign in 1901, a judgment was rendered against the United States, assessed for $43 pounds with interest at 4 per cent.

In the case of the Canadian government's steamship, Canadiana, which was in collision with the U. S. S. Yantic in the St. Lawrence river in 1879, the commission found that both vessels were to blame, but in a different proportion, and assessed a damage of $103 against the United States.

In the case of Elizabeth Cushman, who was killed accidentally by an American soldier shooting at an escaping prisoner near Fort Brady, Mich., the commission, while absolving the United States government from pecuniary liability, expressed the desire that it would favorably consider the payment of some compensation to the girl's family as an act of grace.

ENGINEER IS ACQUITTED

HELD THROTTLE AT NORTH HAVEN WHIRL AND WAS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

NEW HAVEN, May 7.—August B. Miller, a locomotive engineer, charged with involuntary manslaughter, as the result of the wreck at North Haven last September, was found not guilty by a jury in the superior court here yesterday. The jury deliberated five hours.

Miller was in charge of the White Mountain express, which ran into the sea, after the express, passing 24 deaths, Miller, with Flanagan, Charles H. Murray and Conductor Bruce C. Adams of the New Haven train, were arrested on bench warrants last fall after Coroner Mix had held them criminally responsible for the disaster.

Murray recently pleaded guilty and was sentenced to a year in jail, but the sentence was suspended. Adams is yet to be tried.

OPPOSE RATE RAISE

GOV. HAINES SAYS MAINE CENTRAL STOCKHOLDERS SHOULD TAKE THEIR LOSS LIKE OTHERS

BOSTON, May 7.—Governor William T. Haines of Maine came to Boston yesterday to protest against the proposed increase in freight rates on the Maine Central railroad. He told Special Examiner Edgar Watkins of the interstate commerce commission, who gave the shippers a hearing at the federal building, that it seemed to him a poor thing for the railroad to place an added burden on business when industries all over the country were just emerging from depression. He suggested that the stockholders forego their 6 per cent dividend and take their loss with the rest until increased business turned the loss into a profit.

LYNN MAN SUES BROTHER

SHOE MANUFACTURER SAYS HE WAS ATTACKED AND KNOCKED DOWN ON APRIL 11

SALER, May 7.—Some of the mystery which surrounded the falling out between George W. Melanson and Charles Gilbert Melanson, brothers of Lynn, who until recently were engaged together in the shoe manufacturing business in this city, has been in part explained through the filing of a suit in the office of the clerk of courts here. Charles appears as the plaintiff and George as the defendant. Charles says that April 11 his brother George, at Lynn, made an assault upon him, struck him and knocked him down. He says that he was made ill as a result of the treatment which he received at his brother's hands.

To Save Eyes

Is the Object of This Free Prescription—Try it if Your Eyes Give You Trouble

Thousands of people suffer from eye troubles, because they do not know what to do. They know some good home remedy for every other minor ailment, but none for their eye troubles. They neglect their eyes, because the trouble is not sufficient to drive them to an eye specialist, who would, anyway, charge them a heavy fee. As a last resort they go to an optician or to the five and ten-cent store, and oftentimes get glasses that they do not need, or which, after being used two or three months, do their eyes more injury than good. Here is a simple prescription that every one should use:
Use three or four times a day to bathe the eyes. This prescription and the simple Opton system keeps the eyes clean, sharpens the vision and quickly overcomes inflammation and irritation; weak, watery, overworked, tired eyes and other similar troubles are greatly benefited and oftentimes cured by its use. Many reports show that wearers of glasses have discontinued them after a few weeks' use. It is good for the eyes and contains no ingredient which would injure the most sensitive eyes of an infant or the aged. And druggist can fill this prescription promptly. Try it and know for once what real eye comfort is.—Advertisement.

ANOTHER DAUGHTER OF PRESIDENT A BRIDE

heavy black brows; her clear, healthy open air sort of coloring. One feels perfectly sure that she develops freckled nose, on occasion, and a tiny cleft of lip. She is the one woman of the Wilson family who does not go in for sociology rather than for society. She doesn't devote herself aggressively to the uplift or trouble herself unduly about schools, as social centers, though she is, of course, politely interested in other people's tastes in these directions.

Miss Eleanor is rather less of a "high-brow" than the rest. She has the healthy and vigorous taste for play—all sorts and plenty of it. She went to the baseball games with her father last season. It was Eleanor who went to the local and neighborhood horse shows—without her father. And Eleanor went to the best target practice at Hampton Roads. Also Eleanor went on little quiet week end cruises down the Potomac on the Styph when the president wanted to get away from everybody and everything and just rest for a day or two. She plays a smashing good game of tennis and a fairly good game of golf.

As for dancing, "Miss Eleanor's simply crazy about dancing!" is the verdict of all who know her. Nor does she draw any line against the so called "modern" dances. She tangoes, and she hesitates, and she fish crawls, and she is all enthusiasm to master every new step or glide or dip that comes to town.

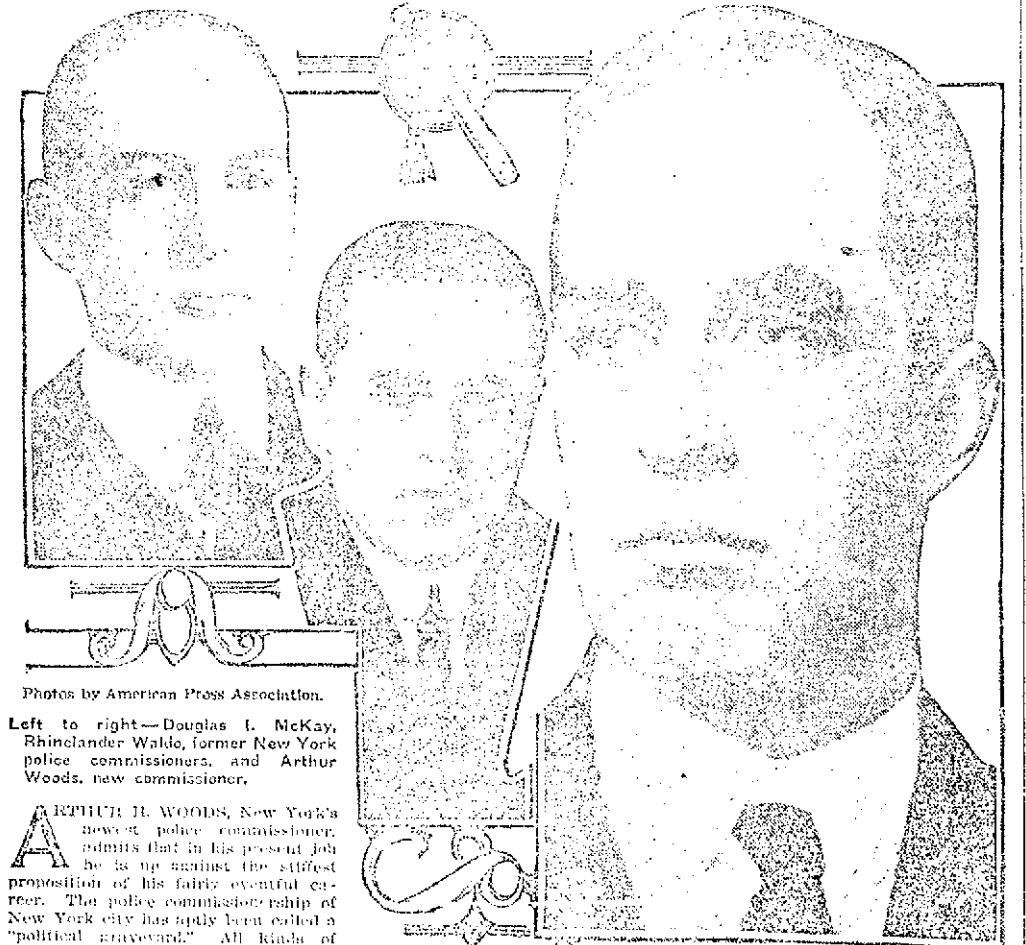

Miss Eleanor "Baby" of Family.

Miss Eleanor is frequently alluded to as the "baby" of the Wilson family. She herself is wont to say that she is the family boy. And there really is something a bit boyish about her—her wide open blue eyes under their fringe of black lashes under the straight,

WOODS TACKLES POLICE PROBLEM

ARTHUR H. WOODS, New York's newest police commissioner, admits that in his present job he is up against the stiffest opposition of his family's scientific career.

The police commissionership of New York city has aptly been called a "political graveyard." All kinds of men have held the position, and not one has "made good" in the general acceptance of the term, while the great majority have left the office roundly abused and thoroughly discredited.

Friends of Colonel George W. Goethals, brother of the Panama canal, didn't hesitate to express their gratification when he was eliminated as a possibility for the office. They said that his acceptance of the job might blight an otherwise brilliant career. Some tersely said:

"Colonel Goethals will find the management of the New York police department a bigger job than the digging of a ditch."

And now it is up to Arthur Woods. Woods starts off with some knowledge of the police department.

In the days when General Bingham headed the police—and incidentally there are those who say that Bingham made the best commissioner New York had in many a day—Woods was one of his deputies. When General Bingham was removed from office and Woods said goodbye to Mulberry street in favor of a lumberman's life in Mexico, he did not lose his interest in the department and its problems. On the contrary, while he was directing the work of halfbreeds down in Colima he mulled over and over again the questions of police department shortcomings, its rules and its politics, the laws and their enforcement, graft, and crime.

one of the conditions which Woods believed was essential to the success of a military unit. "If a soldier or sailor is not strong to begin with, the best way to train him is to be over-trained," Woods said. "He must be given to the strength in a matter of a simple soldier to make a leader and an officer and for excellent work showing capacity and initiative unless they are interpreted to be a good job of training in a systematic way. Another man found the results reflected in the disciplinary code, and for this reason some of the very best men came out with hard looking records. Woods then came to the conclusion, generally prevalent today, that a better term for command was 'control,' and with it he believed in vested power to reward or punish officers.

"When a law commissioner is appointed," Woods used to say, "the members of the force try to get him up. They can't do it, for most of the commissioners are kinds of passengers; they sit by and are gone before the men can tell to what species they belong. If he is a hard man the men he low and wait for better days. If he is an efficient able man, the force will not come out and do the best work because they expect him to be gone before long. I believe if a commissioner were appointed for ten years there would be an improvement of 75 per cent in twenty-four hours."

Woods has been called a theorist. He is a theorist, but a "practical theorist," his friends say. He knows where to draw the line at what can and what cannot be done. "Theoretically speaking," he thinks the laws are all wrong and believes also that the laws and the people are to blame for graft. He has suggested, for example, changes that would obviate the "debouching work of putting up a bluff or pretending to enforce laws which public opinion does not sustain and which people do not want enforced."

The new leader of police is a clean-shaven, active. He is forty-three years of age, but does not look it. When the question of Waldo's successor was in the air and the name of Woods was mentioned one sometimes heard the remark that he was "too nice a fellow for the job." But if his firm and easy manner was baffling, his friends say, it is only so to those who had not seen the man in action when action really counts.

Woods recently received considerable publicity when he assisted in the arrest of Michael P. Mahoney, the man who attempted to kill Mayor Mitchell and wage a bullet-belt Corporation Campaign. L. L. Tolson.

DANES TO TEACH US FARMING

Without HAT there would be no such problem in this country today as the high cost of living is increasing. Farming, coupled with cooperation, could be carried on in any state of the Union with half the scientific application of the Danges is the collection of Dr. Mearns Francis Eggen, American minister to Denmark. Dr. Eggen is back in this country at the request of President Wilson to lecture in the south on the methods of the Danish small farmer.

"Nowhere else have the possibilities of the small farmer been developed as in Denmark," said Dr. Egan. "The tendency over there is to cut up the great estates into small tracts and work those intensively. In Denmark a family can make a very good living out of twenty acres. These would be devoted to raising cows and pigs and perhaps some chickens. There would probably be half a dozen cows. You see, there are only fourteen weeks when cows can feed in the open, and on these places quantities of sugar beets and mangel wurzel—big beets—are raised. Then the farmers import through corporations the very best fertilizers at low prices, such as, if bought by them as individuals, would cost a great deal of money.

By co-operation the Danes have brought under control the exorbitant demand of the middleman. The climate of Denmark is the worst in the whole of Europe, and the soil of the country is by nature admittedly the worst, and yet these disadvantages, given them by nature, the Danish farmers have solved by tackling the problem scientifically. So well have the farmers come to understand their work that, despite, though small, these disadvantages, the country has become a great agricultural country. Conditions over there now are excellent. The demand for bacon, butter and eggs in England can hardly be supplied, and the market for Danish bacon in Germany has increased enormously.

"One of the great headaches about Denmark is that great land syndicates are impossible. Everybody believes that the soil exists for the subsistence of the individual and for his comfort, and public opinion is against large holdings. Farmers rule the country, and it is not too much to say that the profits of the government today are very largely directed for the benefit of the farmer. The actual government of Denmark is a 'peasant' government. When I use the word 'peasant' I do not use it in a class sense and in which it is generally understood. It has changed its significance as that other word 'bourgeois' which used to be taken to mean everything stupid, unintelligent and mediocre. A peasant in rural Denmark may be the proprietor of very large estates, and no peasant in Denmark is an uneducated or narrow minded man in relation to things which immediately concern his progress. The great landed proprietors in Denmark are not absentee landlords; they work themselves or rent their land to others who must work it effectively in order that the proprietors may secure a reasonable percentage on their capital. There is talk in Denmark of a movement for the division of the large entitled landed estates, but this movement is not so evident as it seems to be in England, for the reason that nearly every acre of land that is developed by aristocratic families is developed on scientific principles and adds to the nation's wealth."

PARK DEPARTMENT

WANTS AUTOMOBILE

The park commission submitted a requisition for an automobile for the park department and it was stated today that the purchasing agent would return the requisition because it calls for a certain make of automobile. The requisition calls for a Ford machine and while the purchasing agent thinks the Ford machine is all right, he thinks the charter does not permit the department wanting the automobile to specify any particular make. The requisition calls for a Ford machine and while the purchasing agent thinks the Ford machine is all right, he thinks the charter does not permit the department wanting the automobile to specify any particular make.

In believing that the department wanting the automobile has not the right to specify any certain make, purchasing agent Foye is guided, not only by the charter, but by an opinion handed down by William W. Duncan, former city solicitor, relative to the purchase of an automobile for a city department. The following is an extract from the opinion in question: "If the head of a department makes requisition for an automobile, he has a right to specify the horsepower, passenger capacity, etc., desired, but for his specification of a certain make of automobile, he must show that it is necessary and at the same time on account of the substantial character, durability and reasonable cost best serve the interests of the city. In such cases, under the charter of the city of Lowell, the head of a department is not authorized to make selection is the chief of the department of supplies."

It was stated today that City Solicitor Hennessey is not quite in sympathy with this opinion and that he is of opinion to the effect that the purchasing agent is a sort of messenger of go-between and that while he is invested with purchasing power, what he purchases is subject to the approval of the head of the department for which it was purchased. Former City Solicitor Duncan gave his opinion, of course, under the old charter and the amended charter does not affect the purchasing agent's office. The only change is in the election of the purchasing agent under the new charter and he was elected by the people and under the charter as amended he is elected by the municipal council. Mr. Hennessey is also quoted as saying that it is impossible to oblige the head of a department to accept a machine that he did not want with his approval; that if he even complied by mandamus as the department head is exercising discretionary power, he taking all in all, it would seem that common sense and honesty should characterize the purchase of material and supplies for the city.

The Comfort Station
Let it be understood that the main object of the comfort station on Congress street with the mayor for at yesterday's meeting of the municipal council there was passed an ordinance establishing the manner and control of the comfort station and appropriations therefor, transferring it from the mayor's department to Commissioner Donnelly's department. It was decided that there should be no objection to the change but none was heard. Asked what he thought about the transfer, Mr. Donnelly, in his best baritone, said: "Ischikababla."

Industrial Accident Board
The industrial accident board will conduct at least three hearings in this city during the month of May. The board has already asked for the use of the aldermanic chamber at city hall for two hearings on May 15 and another on May 29.

Hearings on Chlms
That defective sidewalks are responsible for a big crop of accidents is evidenced by the number of claims for personal injuries received at city hall. Some of the claims now before the municipal council have been hanging fire for years but most of them have been cleared up and this year, in order to clean them up and get rid of them the municipal council will hold a sort of general hearing at 7 o'clock Friday evening when the following claims will be heard:

O. M. I. DRUM CORPS
The O. M. I. Life and Drum Corps are now actively engaged preparing for its anniversary which it will annually celebrate the latter part of next month. Nothing will be left undone to make this affair a grand success.

The O. M. I. Life and Drum Corps was organized May 29, 1910, by Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I. of the Immaculate Conception church. Leroy N. Dunne is the leader.

The members of the drum corps are favorably known throughout the city, having headed the O. M. I. Cadets every time they were on parade. They have also escorted the Hon. David Wash, from the depot to the city hall, when he was campaigning for governor. Through untiring efforts the members have succeeded in thoroughly equipping themselves with all up to date paraphernalia and at present are as well off as any drum corps in the state.

The following members are prominently identified with the corps' next section: D. Shea, F. Connor, W. Powers, W. Walworth, J. McLean, H. McNiff.
Drum section—J. McMahon, W. Holden, E. Rodgers, W. Rodgers, W. Murray, James Drum, J. Duto, embryos, B. McMahon, triangle, D. Mahoney.

They may be heard rehearsing every Thursday evening in the Y. M. C. I. hall which was furnished to them through the courtesy of the members of the Y. M. C. I.

LOCAL NEWS
There will be a month's mind mass for the repose of the soul of the late Mrs. A. M. Bertrand, at 5 o'clock Friday morning at St. Joseph's church.

Miss Marietta Calnan, who is now training a superior of music, has returned from Northampton having spent two weeks with her brother, Mr. Joseph P. Calnan, now bookkeeper for the National Biscuit company of Northampton. While away, Miss Calnan observed the music department in the schools of Northampton, Holyoke, and Springfield, Mass.

Friends of Miss Hazel Rodgers, daughter of Eva and James Rodgers of Boston, formerly of Lowell, will be pleased to hear that she is recovering from serious illness.

PIRATES INFEST CHINA

Band Made Raid on Steamer in Which Several Were Killed and $30,000 Stolen

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—Details of a raid made by Chinese pirates on the steamer Shinghai, March 31, in which a number of the ship's officers and crew were killed and $30,000 stolen were brought here yesterday by the Japanese steamer Nippon Maru. The Shinghai, which is a Chinese owned vessel and flies the British flag, sailed from Hong Kong in the evening with 17 passengers who proved to be pirates. Three hours out of port at a pre-arranged signal the pirates drew pistols and knives and attacked four soldiers who had been supplied by the Canton government to guard the vessel's treasure. One soldier was killed and another injured.

The pirates then rushed into the engine room and took charge. There the keeper of the ship's stores tried to intervene and was killed.

By disguising himself as a coiler and hiding the Chinese skipper escaped with his life.

According to Nippon Maru's officers, the entire coast of China is infested with pirates. The government, being without funds to operate a coast patrol, is powerless. Thus far only native vessels have been attacked.

M. E. CONFERENCE
Quadrennial Session at Oklahoma City, Okla. Today

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 6.—Methodist connection with Vanderbilt university at Nashville has through the recent decision of the Tennessee supreme court become a mere shadow.

After several years of litigation, following efforts of a church commission to reach a satisfactory solution of the question of the Methodist church's control of the university, the Tennessee supreme court recently decided that the church through its bishops did not control the school.

The decision of the court leaves to the church a mere shadow of connection with the university, declared the address, "which in our opinion does not justify the claims of the institution or assume any responsibility for it. We are thus deprived of what we have long believed to be our own and which by hundreds of actions taken in our general and annual conferences and in the board of trustees of the university itself has been assumed to be the property of the church."

Indeed, the ownership of the university by the church was never questioned for more than 30 years by anyone within or without the church.

But as law abiding citizens we bow to the decision of the court. This, however, does not mean that we are deterred to believe that the church has received justice in what has been done and decided.

We don't presume to indicate to you what course you should pursue to repair the loss which has been inflicted on the church. That is for the wisdom of the general conference to determine and it is respectfully recommended that the whole matter be referred to a select committee to report what should be done as the case now stands.

After touching upon the growth in church membership the bishops paid their respects to so-called schemes for social treatment.

Many persons would have the church rely on eugenics, the address says, "rather than upon regeneration by the Holy Ghost for the making of a new and nobler race and bring to bear upon man the free agent, strengthening expedients and plant culture devices as the most efficacious means to improve the species. But she may renovators of the voice of these spiritual forces."

The conference was urged to take "such action as may be deemed necessary to secure the speedy and desirable erection of a church in Washington, D. C., adequately representative of our Methodistism," and on the question of rights of the women, the cause for a widespread discussion of the 1910 general conference, the address declared:

"We have reason to believe that the reason for our demand for this kind of equality is not in harmony with the general sentiment of the women of our church."

That no new bishops would be elected at the present general conference was indicated.

FUNERALS
FLANAGAN—The funeral of the late John J. Flanagan took place this morning at 8:30 o'clock from his late home, 24 Walnut street, and was largely attended. The funeral service proceeded to St. Peter's church where at 9 o'clock a funeral mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Fr. Donohue.

Among the many floral tributes was a large one from the family of Mrs. Mary Flanagan and family, Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Edward Flanagan, Mrs. Kitty and Margaret Flanagan, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Conroy, Miss Sarah Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Craig, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Flynn, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Grogan, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Monahan, Mildred Connor and Mrs. Edward Conroy, Mrs. Mary and Martha Dermott, Ruth Young and Martha Thomas, and Miss Marie Duffy. The bearers were Malachi Craig, Joseph Flanagan, Thomas Brennan, Edward Brennan, Thomas O'Loughlin and Edward Brennan. Burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the final prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Donohue. Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons had charge.

FUNERAL NOTICES
DUFFY—The funeral of Mary Duffy will take place Friday morning at 8 o'clock. A high mass of requiem will be sung at St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Patrick's cemetery. Undertaker J. J. McDonough in charge.

MATRIMONIAL
The marriage of William Marren and Miss Elizabeth Nesson took place recently at St. Michael's church, Rev. Fr. Murphy performing the ceremony. The couple were married by Rev. Fr. Murphy and Mr. James Williams. The bride was charmingly gowned in blue silk and wore a white picture hat and carried a bouquet of carnations. Her mother wore blue silk and carried a bouquet of carnations. After the ceremony a reception was held at the future home of the happy couple, 54 First street, where they will be at home after May 14. They were the recipients of many beautiful gifts. Clark's orchestra furnished the music at the reception.

DENTAL NOISE BILL REPORTED
BOSTON, May 6.—The so-called dental noise bill which would permit persons other than registered dentists to perform certain work now requiring a member of the profession was reported to the house of representatives today by the executive committee on public health, with five of the eleven members dissenting.

The bill also would provide for a

VETERAN FIREMEN'S BALL

ENJOYABLE EVENT HELD AT ASSOCIATE HALL WITH LARGE ATTENDANCE

The widely advertised and very enjoyable dance of the Butler Vets took place last evening in Associate hall and was in every way a grand success. The present social season has seen many remarkable gatherings, but it is doubtful if any of them has had anything on that of last night, the 16th annual ball of the association.

A very delightful concert preceded the dancing, Miner's orchestra rendering selections from "William Tell" and the "Butler Vets' March." The dancing floor was taxed to its utmost capacity by about 200 couples. The beauty of the latest gowning devices of the latest dances were shown, but even the most fastidious could find nothing at variance with the high standards of good taste. The galleries were packed by persons who though not dancing took delight in watching the dance floor where beauty and fashion revealed.

HENRY E. CLAY, SECRETARY

The hall looked particularly beautiful with its rich decorations of red and blue, which are the symbolical colors of the association. As the dancing started and from then on the hall was in the possession of the dance, young and old, the following were the officers of this delightful event.

General manager, James H. Walker, assistants, David A. Patterson, Fred A. Tucker, floor marshal, Martin Kennedy, assistants, August McDonald, James E. Lawler, chief song, Cornelius E. Gordin, William C. Wilkins.

Reception committee, Anna Strick, Treasurer, Henry E. Clay.

President James Walker was accorded the honor of being elected president of the New England Veterans' League Tuesday at the convention held in Boston.

The local association was organized in 1877. They acquired an old building owned by a company in Lynn which made a world's record in a "runner" in Lowell in 1885. This building was a store of 250 feet, 6 inches. In later years they purchased an engine from a company in Idaho, Bill Nevada, which they still possess. The sole purpose of the association is to promote the social welfare of the members. Henry E. Clay is the secretary and he must be accorded much credit for his untiring efforts in helping to make the ball the success that it was. He has been the secretary of the Vets for the last eight years. The association is planning for three big outings this summer. The annual meeting held every year will meet next time in Portland, Me. H. H.

Chief Edward F. Foster is an active member of the association. Mr. Foster is a charter member and many a story is told of his running with the old tub. It was here that he got the early experience that made him one of the best fire chiefs in the country.

VICIOUSLY ASSAULTED

ONE OF JOHN F. SAUNDERS' MEN ASSAULTED WITH INTENT OF ROBBERY

Andrew Brown, of 39 St. James street, a teamster employed by John F. Saunders, the Gorham street marketman, was struck over the head with an iron bar last evening while repairing the harness of the horse which he had been driving and as a result one Andrew McMahon, who is said to have been riding with Brown at the time, is now at the police station booked for assault with intent to commit robbery.

Although the teamster received a severe scalp wound he was able to drive to a nearby house where he telephoned to the manager of his store. His wound was then treated by Dr. Mahoney.

The alleged assault occurred on Steadman street, near the end of Westford street, according to the story told by Brown to the police. He claims that he was driving along Westford street with a number of orders in his wagon when Andrew McMahon, who is but 16 years of age, accosted him and wanted a ride. As the two were slightly acquainted, Brown agreed to take him onto the seat and everything went along all right until they had turned into Steadman street, which runs through a lonely woodland with the houses several hundred yards apart.

According to Brown's story, a piece of the harness became untied while they were driving along this street and he got out to mend it, leaving McMahon on the seat. Hardly had he been mending on the ground a minute when, it is claimed, he was struck on the head. Turning around he saw the McMahon standing behind him with an iron bar ready to hit a second time, he claims, but he called for help and this frightened his alleged assailant, who turned and ran away. Although dazed the young man managed to reach a telephone to summon help.

The police were notified and after several hours of searching arrested Andrew McMahon on Adams street, where he lives.

NOTICE OF CHANGE OF CORPORATE NAME

The undersigned officers of First Spiritualist Society of Lowell, a corporation organized under the laws of Massachusetts, located in Lowell, county of Middlesex, hereby give notice that said corporation by an affirmative vote of at least two-thirds of the members entitled to vote at a meeting called for the purpose and by articles of amendment signed and sworn to by the proper officers of said corporation, duly approved by the Commissioner of Corporations, and filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth pursuant to the provisions of chapter 162 of the Acts of 1908, changed its name and adopted the name of First Spiritualist Church of Lowell.

ALFRED E. JORDAN, President, A. HERBIL EMORY, Treasurer, FRED H. COGGESHALL, Secretary, CHARLES E. HAINLEY, Majority of Directors.

Others would be between 12 and 15 kilograms. It is claimed for this new Enallite transparent reinforced sheeting that it has all the advantages of that which is not reinforced without its faults. It can be fastened either by nailing, sewing or by using an adhesive solution. It will not tear or break when anything such as a tool falls upon it, while should it be pierced by a bullet the fabric liner would prevent the damage extending.

CHELMSFORD TOWN MEETING

Editor Sun: Dear Sir—I had the pleasure of attending the town meeting in Chelmsford last Monday night, and it is certainly amusing to see how much the people out there will stand from their presiding officer. I have been mixed up in politics for many years, but I never saw such a shamming given by a presiding officer as was given by the promoters of the new school building at that meeting. I should advise the voters to brush up a little on Cassin's Manual and find out just what special privileges are allowed men who preside at their meetings. When a presiding officer is so anxious either to kill a measure or explain to the meeting, without being asked, how much he knows, it would be a little better form, if he should appoint a man temporarily in his stead and get down on the floor of the meeting with the rest of the voters to do his talking. Yours for enlightenment, An Observer.

Smooth, Hairless Skin Follows this Treatment

Toler Tips

Among the home beauty helps, none perhaps is more important than that which will free the skin from obnoxious hairy growths. A simple method to rid the skin of unsightly hairs is to make a paste by mixing powdered del. with water and applying for about two minutes, then rubbing off. With it comes every bit of hair and when the skin is washed, it will be firm and free from blemish. Results are more satisfactory if the delatone is bought in an original package.

AMONG THE TOILERS

Anthony Doyle who is employed at the American Hide and Leather Co., will spend his vacation as usual in the White mountains.

Mr. Frank Young, who is the machinists' organizer, is out of the city today, but will return in time for the "ball" tonight.

The Trades and Labor council will meet tonight in their hall on Middle street. All members are requested to attend as the meeting is an important one. President Timothy Bourke will address the meeting.

Walter Lyons, employed at the Hamilton mills, is the manager of the popular South End baseball team. He avers that his team will give them all a grand showing up this season on the diamond.

M. Quinn, who is employed by the Whitall Manufacturing company, is some manager of sports. He managed the Lowell Five basketball team in their quest for the championship of the city. There is some good material at the C. Y. M. L. for baseball, too.

The hall of the Y. M. C. L. one of Lowell's leading societies of working young men, will undergo a complete remodeling in the near future. They expect to spend about $200 on a new library which, when finished, will be as up-to-date as any in the city. All of these improvements were thought out by President William King.

A lively discussion over the merits of the Lowell Textile school was overheard by the writer at a local society last evening and at times the debate waxed pretty hot. The question arose over a young man saying the teaching received at this great school of learning would be of little or no benefit to a graduate after leaving school. There were many who took the same stand the young man took and they put up some stiff arguments until a stranger put in an appearance, a former student at the school. He told how he happened to start and told of the results achieved. The stranger said he started as a common mill hand and how he is the assistant superintendent in a large worsted mill. He said that any man, young or old, who had a calling for textile work should exert himself, wake up as he expressed it and if he could not attend the day session to attend the night session at the Lowell Textile school. He said that result would certainly be satisfactory. There is no question but the Lowell Textile school is the greatest school of its kind in the country.

Carpenters 1610 Meet

The Carpenters, local 1610 met in Carpenters hall, in the Runcles building last evening and business of importance was transacted. Four new members were initiated and one application for membership was received. The local is planning for a big outing to be held in the summer.

Ring Spinners and Fixers

The Ring Spinners and Fixers' union held a lively and interesting meeting in their hall, 32 Middle street, last evening. New members are going in at every meeting, seven being admitted last night. It was decided to run a big "smoker" May 27th in the spacious quarters of the union. The admission was fixed at 25 cents. All unions are cordially invited to attend, as the best speakers that can be procured will address the gathering. This union is on a sound financial basis, and although young is progressing rapidly every day.

Probe at Wakefield

That the Haywood Brothers & Wakefield company is having much of its work done at the Salem fall and that it has been furnishing raw material to two other penal institutions, were statements made yesterday by Harry Thwaites, secretary of the Reed and Batten Workers' union, a the investigation of the Wakefield strike by the state board of conciliation and arbitration.

The state board opened its hearing in the Wakefield town hall, Frank H. McCarthy, New England organizer of the American Federation of Labor, was the other witness heard at the opening session of the board that has begun an extensive investigation into the cause of the strike. It was stated that in many conferences with the managers of the cotton factory the company officers told the union men that one of the chief reasons why it could not advance wages was because of its competition with convict-made goods.

About 500 persons, men and women, most of them strikers, attended the meeting in the town hall. All factions of the strikers, including the I. W. W. workers, were present at the hearing. Thwaites, argued with much technical skill, refuted the case for the strikers, and told of the manner in which the work of his department was done.

Fall River Bread War

A rate war on bread is threatened as a part of the campaign of the out-of-town bread manufacturers to retain their grip on the local trade, says the Fall River Herald. In retaliation, local bakers threaten to withdraw their supply of pastry if Fall River grocers persist in trading away from home. Thus, a few more chapters, with continued and additions, added to the somewhat unusual and interesting war of loaves in this city. Many issues are expected to enter the conference of bakers and grocers tomorrow night in Weavers' hall.

It is a three-cornered fight that is being waged between the grocers and the bakers in and out of the city, and a fourth element is threatened from labor sources.

The history of the affair begins with the inception of a campaign on the part of the local Master Bakers' association and afterwards, added to the list of bakers in and out of the city, and a fourth element is threatened from labor sources.

Transparent Acroplane Cloth

Acroplane cloth is manufactured by several mills in this country, and although the yardage demand is not large it may be expected to increase steadily, and the development of a new transparent cellulose sheeting for acroplane's opens a new field for textile specialists.

There have been several attempts to build an acroplane with the wings of transparent material and in May and June of 1912, Lieut. Natter, New, at Wiener Neustadt, near Vienna, an Austrian monoplane, specially built on such lines for Captain Petrovsky, formerly commandant of the flying corps in the Austrian army. This machine had the planes covered with a special variety of Enallite cellulose sheets, and the system has since been developed and patented in all countries by 313, Lehigh, of the Lehigh Valley Enallite. A photograph was made of the Kitch machine, to which reference had been made and which those present on the ground were unable to locate in the air when flying at an altitude of between 500 and 1200 feet. It is stated that at a height of 700 feet only the framework is plainly visible, and this and the outline of the motor and pilot and passengers present so small an area to rifle and gun fire that, at the rate of speed at which acroplanes are flown today, accurate aiming at such surfaces becomes nearly impossible. There are also secondary advantages in the use of such transparent sheeting in the construction of acroplanes. For one thing, it enables the pilot to keep an eye upon the interior framework of the planes and to detect at once any straining or fracture of the ribs, etc. Another advantage is that the highly polished smooth surface reflects light.

Instead of using ordinary cellulose sheeting, the Enallite firm has what might be termed a reinforced sheeting consisting of two layers of Enallite with a sheet of silk fabric between them the silk being specially treated to render it transparent.

The silk fiber strengthens the material and also prevents it from sagging or warping between the ribs, so that by its use it is quite possible to obtain a smooth and regular surface on the planes. The tensile strength of the material is about 9 to 10 kilograms per square millimeter section and a 25 millimeter sheeting is sufficient to insure a tensile strength of about 2500 to 3000 pounds per square foot. The weight of this new Enallite material does not exceed 25 grams per square meter, which is but 10 per cent more than the weight of used deerskin fabric as generally used, so that the increase of weight in the case of ordinary material is not a serious consideration.

MATT HALE EXONERATED

Bull Moose Jury Acquits Him of Charge of Being Traitor to His Party After a Stormy "Trial"

BOSTON, May 7.—Charles that two members of the progressive party of Massachusetts who have been active in its career are traitors to the party, and have sold out to the republican party and are its tools in stirring up strife and dissension in the ranks of the progressive party, were made and vigorously denied at a stormy meeting of the state committee yesterday afternoon at the Eastern progressive committee headquarters, 25 Court street.

WHITE HOUSE WEDDING

Elaborate decorations which are a feature of today's wedding.

The massive furniture of days gone by has been refitted with furniture of the lighter, if not more artistic design. The floral decorations of the room, in fact, of the entire mansion on the first floor—will be marvelously beautiful. Splendid carvings of peaceful design in cut glass and rare porcelain will be filled with cut flowers, including masses of lilies and white orchids, products of the White House conservatories.

The room will be filled with palms to form a background for great bunches of spring blossoms of cherry, peach and apple.

In the main lobby of the mansion, the Marine band orchestra of fifty pieces, under the direction of Lieut. William H. Scott, will render a program of music specially selected by Miss Wilson.

A strain of Wagner's wedding march from Lohengrin, the wedding party will descend the main staircase from the apartments above. Miss Margaret Wilson and Mrs. Sage, the bride's sisters, will be maid and matron of honor. Two charming little maids, Miss Fannie McAdoo, the 12-year-old daughter of the bridegroom, and Miss Nancy Lane, the daughter of the bridegroom's father, will attend the bride as flower girls. They will be attired in exquisite white frocks, exactly matched.

President to Escort Bride

The bride will be escorted to the Blue Room by her father, the president of the United States. At the beautiful, carpeted altar of white satin and cut flowers, she will be joined by the bridegroom, Mr. McAdoo, and his best man, Mr. C. F. Grayson, U. S. N., an intimate friend of the bridegroom and of the president.

An informal reception will follow the ceremony, after which the bride and groom will be seated at a table in the State Dining Room. Both the room itself and the great dining table will be superbly decorated, and the latter particularly, will be a vision in sparkling cut glass, silverware and rare flowers.

Later in the evening, Secretary McAdoo and his bride will leave Washington for a brief honeymoon trip. It is expected that they will travel home away from Washington, as it is known that the secretary's official duties, particularly with reference to the federal reserve board, will demand his presence in the national capital.

The Bride's Gown

The bride's gown is a superb creation of ivory satin, adorned with broad bands of European tulle lace, of soft and elegant design. The gown has a sweeping train, several yards in length. The tulle which softly drapes the bodice, is drawn into a point below the shoulders, leaving a V-shaped opening both back and front. Soft folds of tulle finish this opening, and there is a tulle train of the same material, which is made of tulle unadorned. The lace is applied with exquisite grace. It is draped over the right shoulder, and crosses the bodice in a sweeping line to the left side of the waist, where it is caught with a spray of orange blossoms. Below the waist line it falls as a border to the tulle train. A novel feature of the lovely costume will be the broad wreath of orange blossoms in cap effect from which the long tulle veil will be draped.

Neckline of Diamonds

Practically the sole ornament to be worn by the bride will be a necklace of diamonds, the gift of the groom. Miss Wilson will carry a wonderful shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, white orchids and fern fronds.

More than a century of romantic White House history will form a fitting background for the wedding.

ARE WRINKLES MORE COMMON?

Because life is more complex—because women are interested in so many more things than they used to be—because dividing a day among household duties, politics, clubs, charities, society, business and personal care is a stupendous thing—and strenuous life makes marks upon the face of the woman of today who wants to look right has long since started to aid Nature in its uneven night and many of the wisest and best have decided upon this economical vegetable fully cream as the simplest wrinkle remover and skin stimulant. It protects the surface of the skin and brings the blood to the surface where it performs its upbuilding work. Just from your finger an ounce of almond, but it is a fruit jar and add half a pint of water and two tablespoons of glycerine. Let this mixture stand for several hours, stirring occasionally during this time. Before retiring apply rather thickly and allow it to dry. It will harden rapidly and, when applied, you will note a slight tightening of the skin. In the morning remove with water and note the immediate effect.

The jury disagreed and three reports were made to the verdict of 10 members of the jury exonerating Chairman Matthew Hale on all charges, the other two agreeing with, but calling for minor modifications of the majority report, making that the verdict was not completed.

After a long and heated discussion which ran over three hours, Chairman Hale was completely exonerated.

Miss Edna L. Spencer was a member of the jury which sat on the Hale charges, and she with the Committee of Selection, reported to the full committee in discussion.

The minority verdicts were tabled and the majority verdict accepted. The jury reported several days ago that it could not agree, and it was sent out again to bring in a unanimous report, but failed.

One half for the bride couple in the ceremony of today. According to accepted authorities, Miss Eleanor Wilson will be the first bride to plight her troth within the historic walls of the famous mansion. In the identical room where she today will take the hand of her chosen, "for better, for worse," beautiful Frances Folsom became the wife 25 years ago, and the first president of the United States, Grover Cleveland, and only a few months after the death of the bridegroom, today, Miss Joseph Wilson, was united in marriage, in the magnificent room of the White House, to Francis T. Sayre.

The White House is hallowed in the memory of one other May bride, loved Nellie Grant, who, 40 years ago, was married in the East room to an English scoundrel, Algernon C. P. Seymour. Today's wedding will be a wedding in respect of the principals as Miss Wilson will be the first daughter of a president of the United States to be joined in marriage to a member of the cabinet.

The Bride

The bride is the brunette of the Wilson daughters, 22 years old, with such an expressive face that most people call her handsome. She is tall and slender, her head is well shaped, her eyes are blue and when she smiles, or better still, when she laughs, which is often—she shows her fine teeth. Her hair is a shade darker than her mother's and she wears it in a coil wound round her head. She follows the fashion in dress, without exaggeration.

She was born in Middletown, Conn., where her father was a professor at Yale University. At 15 she went to Haverford, N. C., to boarding school. Later on, while her sister, Margaret, went to the University of Virginia, and another sister was engaged in social settlement work in the Kensington, Pa., mill district, the bride began her art studies in Philadelphia, inheriting her ability and taste in that direction from her mother.

Life at the capital opened up a program of events which the bride has enjoyed to the fullest. Most of the White House week-end guests have been former associates of the Wilson girls and have joined in their social activities here. The White House tennis court, famous during the Roosevelt regime, fitted in perfectly in the Wilson girls' home pleasure scheme. Eleanor plays a good game of tennis, though equally at home at horseback riding. She is also fond of walks, often joining the president in his strolls.

Secretary McAdoo has trumped with her many afternoons after his office hours through the uptown streets and suburbs.

Miss Wilson's gowns of the past season have been especially well selected and are part of her trousseau. One of her most becoming ball gowns was a white satin, both skirt and waist draped, the distinctive feature being the broad giraffe of black velvet ribbon with long shawl ends. Stimulants still rules the gowning of Mrs. Wilson and her daughters for the street and home wearing. One of Eleanor's favorites this spring has been a shining black sailor faced with rose pink, with a full blown rose and a bit of foliage perched on the left front of the brim.

The Bridegroom

The bridegroom of today, Secretary William G. McAdoo, was born in Marietta, Ga., 51 years ago. He was only 21 years when admitted to the bar, after his studies at the University of Tennessee. He practised his profession in Chattanooga for eight years, then moved to New York. There he conceived the project with which his name is identified—the Hudson river tunnel system, linking New York and Jersey City. Mr. McAdoo was president of the system from 1902 to 1913. Mr. McAdoo was one of the "original Wilson men," and as vice-chairman of the democratic national committee and 1912 campaign the acquaintance between the two, fated to be bound together later by family ties, has had no break since its inception. Mr. McAdoo's first wife died about two years ago. She was Sarah Houston Fleming of Chattanooga, Tenn. Of his six children, three sons and three daughters, the two oldest are married. They are Charles Martin, who lives in Arizona, and Francis H. McAdoo of this city. The other children are William G. McAdoo, Jr., student at Princeton; Robert McAdoo, at school at St. Paul; Miss Nora McAdoo, who took part in Washington social life for the past year for the first time, and Sallie McAdoo, the little girl of the family.

Young For His Years

SURVIVORS OF BURNED STEAMER AT BOSTON

Franconia Brings in 13 Members of Crew of Columbian—Several Suffering From Burns Hurried to Hospital—Cause of Explosion

BOSTON, May 7.—When the Commodore of the Franconia arrived today bringing 13 members of the crew of the burned steamer Columbian, several of the survivors were still suffering severely from burns and all showed the effects of exposure. The body of Chief Steward Matthews, who died from burns while in the open boat, also was brought by the Franconia.

James Drohan, the wireless operator of the Columbian, expressed the opinion that the spontaneous combustion in the cargo of raw and junk caused the fire. He said he was awakened by an explosion shortly before midnight Sunday night and when he rushed out on deck the vessel was in flames.

The 13 survivors were too far injured to give any detailed account of their escape from the burning ship and their 40 hours of intense suffering in an open and leaky boat. Every man was suffering from burns and bruises and all were hurried to the marine hospital at Chelsea for rest and treatment.

Boatswain's Mate Iva Iverson, the ranking officer of the party, seemed hopeful of the ultimate rescue of the missing boat, perhaps by some vessel equipped with wireless.

The fire on the Columbian Monday morning brought all hands on deck within a few minutes but when the orders came to abandon ship the tactic became jammed in the boat which the survivors manned.

Adrift 40 Hours

The boat hung for a few minutes by the tails, the men fending her off from the red hot sides of the steamer until one of the crew cut the rope. In the drop a hole was punched in the bottom and for 40 hours the men took turns in bailing. No effort was made to keep near the burning steamer and the little boat was allowed to drift at the mercy of wind and current.

Chief Steward Matthews who was placed in the boat before she was cut away was delirious and died within a few hours.

Operator Badly Burned

When the men were picked up they were hurried to the best state rooms in the Franconia and were not disturbed except for food and nourishment. Drohan, the wireless operator, was badly burned and exhausted that he was not until he reached port that he expressed any desire for food.

As soon as the men have sufficiently recovered they will be sent back to London, either from here or from New York.

Before being taken ashore all the seamen asked to see Captain Miller of the Franconia, to whom they expressed their gratitude for what he and his officers had done for them.

FORMER ENGINEER OF COLUMBIAN TELLS HOW BLAZE IN COAL CAUSED EXPLOSION

That spontaneous combustion in the coal bunkers caused the fire that led to the destruction of the Leyland liner Columbian, is the belief of Fourth Engineer Stanley Livingston of the Leyland liner Whitefriar, now in port, who was formerly one of the engineers of the ill-fated craft.

Engineer Livingston, who arrived with the Whitefriar from Liverpool yesterday, was recently transferred to his present vessel from the Columbian. He was familiar with every nook and corner of the burned vessel's engine and, judging from the wireless reports, believes that the explosions heard were caused by fire rather than that the fire followed the explosions.

He said last night: "I knew many of the men who are missing, and it was indeed a shock to me when I learned that my former vessel had met with a terrible fate. Particularly was I grieved when I heard that my former chief, the venerable engineer of the Columbian, had to meet such an accident after following the sea for more than a quarter of a century with the same line."

Started in Coal Bunkers

It is believed that the fire started in the coal bunkers. Often a smoldering fire in a ship's coal bunkers will flare up at an unexpected instant, and before the small blaze can be gotten under control, a vigorous conflagration will be in progress.

"The tramp steamer's son said that his father was carrying forward of the ship, and that he fell into the blaze. That was old man Connor, who had been with the Columbian for 10 years. He lived in London when ashore, and his son had tried to get him to give up the sea."

The Columbian was a triple expansion engine steamer, and her engine and boiler rooms are as familiar to me as my own home. The catastrophe must have had its beginning outside of the machinery of the big freighter. Captain Miller at the Franconia, in his report, says that the fire was first reported by the lookout, who saw smoke rising from hatch No. 4, and that was one of the bunker hatches. From there to the engine and boiler room was but one step, and the fire in No. 4 hatch was carried from the boiler room by only a single thickness of plating. It could have been but a short time when the red-hot boiler would cause the boilers to burst with deafening roar.

Charles Roberts, chief engineer of the Columbian, is a very sad case of mine, and very sorry to hear that Chief Steward John Matthews was one of those who perished."

HOME RULE BILL IMPACT

Redmond Secures Promise From Asquith That it Will Pass Without Change—Concessions Later

LONDON, May 7.—John Redmond, the Irish nationalist leader, is understood to have opposed any negotiations for a compromise on the question of home rule for Ireland until the bill reaches the house of lords. Mr. Redmond had a long conference Tuesday with Premier Asquith on the question of a settlement and as a result of his opposition to negotiation, the government agreed to hasten the final stages of the bill in the house of commons, which will be completed the week after next.

The Irish home rule bill will thus become law, as it stands under the operation of the parliament act, and should any compromise on the question of a settlement be arranged afterwards as a result of negotiating between the leaders, an amending bill incorporating them will be passed immediately.

commodious residence at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, which, perchance, may soon become the scene of a honeymoon or a summer sojourn of the new cabinet couple.

Where Secretary McAdoo and his young fiancée will spend their honeymoon is being kept a close secret. It is practically certain, however, that they will take a sea trip.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

AGAINST CONDUCTOR OF BAR HARBOR EXPRESS MAY BE DROPPED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 7.—The charges of manslaughter brought against Conductor Grace C. Adams of the Bar Harbor express as a result of the wrecking of his train at North Haven on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad last September by the White Mountain express, will probably be dropped, it is learned today. Twelve persons were killed by the wreck and the coroner held as criminally responsible Adams and his trainmen, Charles Murray, and Engineer August B. Miller of the White Mountain express. Murray some time ago pleaded guilty and was given a suspended sentence. Miller was found yesterday not guilty of involuntary manslaughter by a jury in the superior court.

It had been previously stated that Adams would not be tried until a later term of the superior court. It is now said that the counsel for Adams has been informed that the charges against him will be dropped.

LOWELL TEXTILE SCHOOL

JOHN N. COLE OF ANDOVER

Graduates of Evening Classes Receive Diplomas—Lowell Boy Receives Alumni Chemistry Prize

The exercises of graduation of the evening classes of the Lowell Textile School were held last evening. There were 87 graduates in all, 55 from Lowell, 20 from Lawrence and the remainder from surrounding towns. The chief Alumni prize was awarded to Samuel Jennings Nichol of Lowell. The award carried with it looks bearing on the subject of chemistry.

Hillard's orchestra opened the exercises at 8 o'clock and the president of the board of trustees of the school, Mr. A. G. Cunningham, gave the address of welcome. He spoke of the great value of vocational training and said of the Lowell Textile school that it is the most complete school of its kind in the world. Europe, which has been specializing in schools for many years, does not possess a textile school as thoroughly equipped as the local school. Prior to the coming of the vocational school, he said, all young men and women were turned out of the same kind of schools. Yet, it was manifest that all young men and women were not made to receive the same kind of education. He said that the result of turning all pupils together is apparent in the great number of men who seem qualified for nothing in particular. That sort of training which makes incompetents of many.

Just at the present time there is about to be a great impetus given to manufacturing in New England. The imminent opening of the Panama canal will bring New England 20 days nearer South America. To New England, with its hives of industry, will be given an opportunity to compete with other parts of the world, and New England will be in a position to dispose of her goods in such markets as Valparaiso, Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Ayres, etc. The opening of the canal will mean much to the textile industry. It will mean the shipment of millions of yards of cloth each year to the South American countries where, before, only a comparatively small number of yards, if any, were sent. The men who are qualifying for positions of greater responsibility in the textile industry will be given greater chances to develop than ever before. There will be greater demand for the manufacture of cloth, greater demand for more capable men, and a demand for men in positions which will be created by the great trade in commodities which have hitherto but been merely skimmed by American manufacturers.

Presentation of Diplomas

After Principal Barnes had made the presentation of the Olney Alumni chemistry prize to Samuel Jennings Nichol and a selection by the orchestra, Mayor Dennis J. Murphy made the presentation of diplomas. The mayor spoke a few words of advice and encouragement to the graduates. "In the years to come," he said, "there will be times when you will be threatened with discouragement. Remember, you go out into the world, not as captains of industry, but as workers. And you will not be captains of industry tomorrow, nor next year, nor for several years. But you are giving yourselves a better opportunity to rise than are many others. HAD A POOR MEMORY

"DUMMY" TREASURER OF NEW HAVEN HAD FORGOTTEN WHY HE SIGNED CHECKS FOR $4,000,000

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Some of the inside details of the organization of the Metropolitan Steamship company or New Jersey were revealed yesterday when the interstate commerce commission resumed its inquiry into the affairs of the New Haven railroad and its subsidiaries.

Over C. Richards of Portland, Me., told how he acted as "dummy" treasurer for the company when it was formed. He testified to going to New York at the request of Warren L. Clark of Hartford, Conn., and there signing two checks totaling $3,999,999 without knowing what they were for and without asking. They were on May 8, 1910, and Richards said he remained in New York about two weeks, receiving $2 a day and his expenses, and signing various papers about which he had no clear remembrance.

VERDICT FOR $20

Given By Judge Fisher in Case of Keyes vs. Burns of High Street Fire Station

Judge Frederick A. Fisher, who heard the evidence in the case of Henry J. Keyes vs. J. Edward Burns, has given a verdict for the plaintiff and assessed damages at $20. The action was brought as the result of a dispute which occurred in the High Street fire station between the defendant, who is captain of the station, and the plaintiff, who was visiting there. The plaintiff alleged that he was ejected from the house without hat or overcoat and that Capt. Burns used unnecessary force in putting him out. Jackson Palmer appeared for the plaintiff and Noyce Murphy for the defendant.

BARRED FROM ATHLETICS

CHICAGO, May 7.—Roy M. Kinsner, Abraham C. Schmidt, Leo P. Rank and Eugene Schmidt will not be permitted to take part in athletics at Northwestern university during the remainder of their course in the dental college. Their expulsion from sports was ordered yesterday by university officials. Although ineligible under conference rules because they were freshmen, Kinsner and Schmidt played on the varsity baseball team in a recent game with Minnesota. Under the rules of Rank and Schmidt, team, was dismissed from the university two days ago and Fred J. Murphy, former Yale football player, was named baseball coach in place of Dennis Grady, because of the "tinkering."

IS BALDNESS AMONG WOMEN INCREASING?

Wigs, colored or otherwise, rats, switches, transformations, curling tongs, sharp metal hair pins, artificial waving machines, singeing and a round dozen more strictly modern devices, have combined to ruin the hair of many women, so there is decidedly an increase in baldness, though lately the magazines and papers have rather stopped the advance of hair trouble by showing that simply air, sunshine and proper care will develop heavy, beautiful hair upon any head. Great care should be taken when washing the hair to not remove more than the excess oil from the head. A perfectly safe, economical, cooling, invigorating shampoo can be had by dissolving a teaspoonful of cantbox, which every good druggist has, in a cup hot water. This mixture cleanses gently, yet thoroughly, and gives to the scalp and hair the vigor that insures scalp health and hair beauty. Cantbox shampoos make the head feel good and are very beneficial where hair is faded, dull and brittle, the regular use of which will greatly enrich the color of the hair and give to it a beautiful gloss and softness.

OPPOSES REPEAL OF TOLLS

Sen. O'Gorman Attacks Administration's Policy—Passage Will Compromise Country, He Says

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Senator O'Gorman, chairman of the inter-commerce committee, and leader of the forces opposed to the repeal of the toll exemption clause of the Panama canal act, gave the senate today the legal, economic and political reasons for his opposition.

In a three-hour speech, the senator discussed exhaustively every phase of the subject. He discovered no ground in international law which would justify the exemption of American coastwise ships from toll payment, saw behind the repeal movement the hand of the railroads and declared that a failure to impose a tax would not be called a subsidy.

The senator warned his democratic colleagues that to repeal the exemption was to violate the pledges of the Baltimore platform and to reserve the verdict of the people when they elected President Wilson last November on that platform.

Senator O'Gorman said that Congress, as formed by Presidents Roosevelt and Taft, and a preceding Congress agreed that coastwise vessels should be exempt, another Congress should think twice before giving its approval to the repeal bill for it in turn might and itself reversed by a Congress yet to be elected.

"This question of tolls," said the senator, "is but an incident in a great contest now in its initial stage, which may determine the control of the Panama canal for all time. The construction of the canal will rank among the world's wonders, but the opinion of mankind will pronounce the surrender of our sovereignty over it a colossal blunder and a triumph of British diplomacy."

"I know there is a vague suspicion that diplomatic reasons require this national concession, but my judgment, formed and based upon such information as is available, is that the gravest of our international relations has been grossly, though unconsciously, exaggerated. The American people want peace, but they fear no power on earth. Slavery cannot disturb a brave man. They should not abate a brave and intrepid people."

"No senator questions the patriotism and high purposes of the president, but of legislation it is to be made dependent upon his will alone, no one can predict the mischief to which such a precedent will expose this government in future years. I believe that the passage of this bill compromises the dignity and honor of the country, and before the deed is consummated I enter my solemn protest against what I consider to be a betrayal of the American people."

Senator O'Gorman further sought to show that exemption of American coastwise vessels is a wise economic policy; that if such vessels fall within the terms of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, exemption does not constitute a violation thereof and that the canal has been constructed on a treaty which the United States is sovereign while the canal contemplated in the treaty was to be built on alien soil and therefore the treaty is inapplicable.

"Exemption of coastwise craft from the payment of tolls," he continued, "will reduce the cost of shipping through the canal to a minimum, and thereby compel competing lines in the United States and Canada to reduce their rates to a competitive basis. The more expensive you make water transport, the greater the tolls you extend to the railroads in the future of their rates. Place a toll on the domestic shipping and for every dollar you collect by way of toll you enable the railroads to make a corresponding increase in their rates. It was hoped by some that the exemption to the coastwise trade might be followed in the near future by a like exemption to the foreign trade, but drug this privilege to the coastwise vessels now and you make it forever impossible to confer it upon the ships engaged in overseas trade."

"I know it is said that free tolls will simply enrich the ship owner and confer no benefit on the producer and consumer. Well, if free tolls will not decrease the cost of the consumer, imposing tolls on the other canals of the country will not increase the cost of the consumer. I suppose you will make your system uniform. Perhaps this is part of a program to impose tolls on the shipping of the other canals of the world."

The senator argued that it is a well known principle of international law that conditions in any international agreement cease to be obligatory when the state of facts on which they were founded had ceased to exist or has been changed. He pointed out that when the United States became the sovereign of the Panama canal zone and it became United States territory, the Hay-Pauncefote treaty no longer bound the United States.

To back up this contention, the senator showed that England forfeited the Suez canal after Egypt became British territory and that when the great powers which were parties to the convention under which the canal was constructed, raised objection, the British government relied upon this same principle of international law. He said that since Great Britain had recognized the American right to fortify the canal forbidden in the treaty, it had recognized a changed condition.

which makes the entire treaty imperative.

"The treaty," said he, "must stand or fall as a whole. Under the doctrine recognized by the British government, the treaty is imperative as to the newly acquired territory of the United States, and the canal constructed on American territory at Panama, is no more affected by the Hay-Pauncefote treaty than would be a canal built across any other part of the soil of the United States."

The senator in conclusion declared that the provision of the treaty that the canal "shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and war of all nations" cannot be interpreted to include coastwise ships, because vessels of commerce have been defined as those engaged in international trade.

PAY 1812 WAR DAMAGES

UNITED STATES MUST SETTLE—OWES $5,000 AND ALSO 93 YEARS' INTEREST

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The American and British Claims Arbitration tribunal, which has been in session here for several months, adjourned yesterday with the understanding that it shall reconvene some time in July in Paris, when announcement will be made of decisions in some of the cases recently argued. Further arguments are to be heard on cases remaining on the docket when the commission re-assembles in Washington, probably next January.

Decisions were rendered on the closing day of the session on half a dozen cases, none of which involved any new points of international law. In the matter of the claim of the Gloucester fishing schooner Frederick Gerling, Jr., for damages sustained at the hands of the Canadian authorities through her seizure, the tribunal confirmed a private settlement that had been made on the basis of the payment of $5000 to the owners of the vessel. An award of $275 was made to the Great Northwestern Telegraph company of Canada for damages to its cable in Quebec harbor by the anchor of the U. S. S. Essex.

For the illegal seizure of the British ship Lord Nelson, captured by the United States navy June 3, 1812, nearly two weeks before the declaration of war between the United States and Great Britain, the tribunal assessed $5000 damages against the United States with 93 years' interest.

Because its fisheries in a rough sea in Manila Bay damaged the British cutter Estey in 1904, a judgment was rendered against the United States government for $40 pounds with interest at 4 per cent.

In the case of the Canadian government's steamship, Canadiana, which was in collision with the U. S. S. Yantic in the St. Lawrence river in 1879, the commission found that both vessels were to blame, but in a different proportion, and assessed a damage of $1000 against the United States.

In the case of Elizabeth Cadanhead, who was killed accidentally by an American sentry shooting at an escaping prisoner near Fort Brady, Mich., the commission, while absolving the United States government from pecuniary liability, expressed the desire that it would favorably consider the payment of some compensation to the girl's family as an act of grace.

ENGINEER IS ACQUITTED

HELD THROTTLE AT NORTH HAVEN WHIRL AND WAS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

NEW HAVEN, May 7.—August B. Miller, a locomotive engineer, charged with involuntary manslaughter, as the result of the wreck at North Haven last September, was found not guilty by a jury in the superior court late yesterday. The jury deliberated five hours.

Miller was in charge of the White Mountain express, which ran into the Bar Harbor express, causing 21 deaths. Miller, with Fireman Charles H. Murray and Conductor Bruce C. Adams of the Bar Harbor train, were arrested on bench warrants last fall, after Coroner Mix had held them criminally responsible for the disaster.

Murray recently pleaded guilty and was sentenced to a year in jail, but the sentence was suspended. Adams is yet to be tried.

OPPOSE RATE RAISE

GOV. HAINES SAYS MAINE CENTRAL STOCKHOLDERS SHOULD TAKE THEIR LOSS LIKE OTHERS

BOSTON, May 7.—Governor William T. Haines of Maine came to Boston yesterday to protest against the proposed increase in freight rates on the Maine Central railroad. He told Special Examiner Edgar Watkins of the interstate commerce commission, who gave the shippers a hearing at the federal building, that it seemed to him a poor time for the railroad to place an added burden on business when industries all over the country were just emerging from depression. He suggested that the stockholders forego their 6 per cent dividend and take their loss with the rest until increased business turned the loss into a profit.

SHOE MANUFACTURER SAYS HE WAS ATTACKED AND KNOCKED DOWN ON APRIL 13

SALEM, May 7.—Some of the mystery which surrounded the falling out between George W. Melanson and

Charles Gilbert Melanson, brothers of Lynn, who until recently were engaged together in the shoe manufacturing business in this city, has been in part explained through the filing of a suit in the office of the clerk of courts here. Charles appears as the plaintiff and George as the defendant. Charles says that April 13 his brother George, at Lynn, made an assault upon him, struck him and knocked him down. He says that he was made ill as a result of the treatment which he received at his brother's hands.

For Sallow, Wrinkled, Freckled, Pimpled Skin

If you have any sallowish, blotchy, or any other skin trouble, don't use a face powder or any other cosmetic to cover it up. Too often this only emphasizes the defect. Besides, it's much easier to remove the discoloration with ordinary household soap. Applied nightly, the soap will gradually remove freckles, pimples, blackheads, redness, sallowness, red or yellow blotches, or any surface eruptions. The affected surface is discolored a little each day, until the clear, soft, youthful and beautiful skin beneath is brought wholly to view. Ask the druggist for a ounce of soap, and use this like you use cold cream. Remove in morning with soap and water. Many who have tried this simple and harmless treatment report astonishing results.

If bothered with wrinkles or crow's feet, a wash lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered salicylic acid in a half pint with hard water will prove remarkably efficient.

TINKERING THE CHARTER

When those who succeeded in getting Boston a new charter a few years ago drew up its provisions, it was unfortunate that they were not able to invent some legal device which would have made it practically impossible for any individual to be able to change it. Without any public change of a charter, the city government has succeeded in making a number of amendments which are not at all necessary and which tend to a political rather than a business regime for the city of Boston. That the change is not desirable may be judged from the statement that all the city and business organizations of the city, backed up by a united press, have condemned it in no uncertain terms. Yet here and there amendments have been made by a bare majority of the city council.

Lowell's first step in the amendment of the present charter was the knowledge that the city council is held to a special session on or greater than the 15th of the month of January, and it is necessary to have the amendment of the charter ready by that time. SOUNDING OF HORNS
People generally welcome the news that the police department will insist that all motorists turning Lowell corners must sound their horns or other warning devices, and that there is need for this regulation is most apparent. Automobiles and other drivers are careless to the extent that the municipal authorities are tolerant and the town council forbearance of the local police department in the past has not made Lowell safer for pedestrians. Now is the time, before auto traffic becomes too great to be easily handled, for the authorities to insist on the observance of all that safeguards the public, whether it be the sounding of horns and compliance with other rules that motorists are called upon to respect and observe in all well regulated communities.

CONFESSED HIS GUILT

Frank J. McMahon, the 17-year-old boy who was arrested early this morning in a house on Fletcher street, opposite Franklin street, by Lieut. Freeman, Sergt. Ryan and Patrolmen Deering and Dorman, on a complaint charging him with assault with intent to commit robbery, was brought before Judge Enright in his private office this forenoon and it was said that the young man made a complete confession, stating that his whole intention was to rob the man when he struck. The case was continued until Friday, May 15, and bail was fixed at $2000.
The story that Young McMahon told the court and Sgt. Welch this forenoon will undoubtedly be further investigated by the police. He said that he had lived in this house on Fletcher street for only about three weeks but for the past two or three years has been in Lowell practically all of the time. For some time he was employed as "kitchen boy" in a local hotel, he said, and on last Sunday evening stole $20 from the coat pocket of a cook while the latter was busy in another part of the hotel. When asked by the court what had become of this money he said that he lost five dollars in less than one hour shooting crap and had spent the remainder in different ways.
It seems that for the past few days
the youth has been riding with different teamsters employed by John P.
Saunders and in this way learned that Andrew Brown of St. James street, a teamster, was to go to Chelmsford early yesterday afternoon. He told the court that he waited for Brown on Westford street and asked him if he could accompany him for the ride. As Brown had seen the boy around the store at least on two different occasions, he agreed upon taking him over his route and the two traveled together in the afternoon, driving all over Chelmsford. The story of the assault is told in another column.
Some of those who have talked with the youth think he is not right mentally. It appears he seemed anxious to tell the police all the damaging things he could think of against himself.
It was also stated this forenoon that

POPULAR FRENCH CLUB

ASKS CLUB LICENSE FOR ELKS
OLD QUARTERS—LARGE MEM-BERSHIP ASSURED
At a recent meeting of the Citizens-Americans club a committee was appointed to look into the advisability of leasing the quarters formerly occupied by the Lowell lodge of Elks in Middle street and use the rooms for quarters for the club. At last night's meeting of the club the committee made a favorable report and it is probable that the new quarters will be opened within a couple of weeks.
A revision of the by-laws of the club was made and now the membership fee will be $3 a year instead of $1 as was previously. The club has filed an application with the license commissioner for a club license and the members are now awaiting the decision of the commissioner.
There are now 150 members on the membership roll and it is believed that with the opening of the new quarters the number of members will be at least doubled. The officers of the club are
E. N. Gendron, president; H. Thibault, recording secretary; Ferdinand Rouseau, financial secretary and treasurer;
Joseph Travers, Traffic Committee and Maxime Lepine, directors. The committee appointed to make arrangements for other quarters consisted of the board of directors and the president and vice president. The club was recently incorporated and it is the intention of the members to purchase new furniture as soon as the change in location is made.
MATRIMONIAL
Mr. Patrick O'Neil and Miss Katherine Murphy, two well known young residents of St. Patrick's parish, were united in marriage Tuesday afternoon at the parsonage residence of St. Patrick's church. Mr. Patrick Harrington was the best man and the bride-maid was Miss Maudie Gould. The bride was attired in white tulle and carried a large bouquet of white flowers and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The bride-aid wore blue silk crepe de chine trimmed with fish lace and a picture hat. She carried a large bouquet of sweet peas. At the conclusion of the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 516 Suffolk street. The happy couple received many beautiful gifts.

They left at 4 o'clock on their honeymoon and will be at home to their friends about the 15th instant at 1
Wood street.

CLEAN UP AT ARMORY

CAPT. JEVES AND HIS ASSISTANT HAVE COMPLETED THEIR SPRING CLEANING
Capt. Walter R. Jevess, armorer at the Westford street armory, and his assistant, have completed their general spring cleaning of the various departments of the large building and the interior of the brick structure now presents a very neat appearance.
The two men are now busy on the outside, fixing up the turf and in a few days they will have the place in the best of condition. Capt. Jevess is trimming the hedge around the building and he hopes that those who have crossed through Westford and Grand streets will know enough this year to keep away from the shrubbery. The little trees were planted last year, and were greatly damaged by adults who took pleasure in walking over them instead of on the sidewalk. The captain wishes it understood that he will have all trespassers prosecuted.

the charge against Mrs. Josephine of Mrs. Schuman that she had been charged with the charges were made by William H. Rapp, Jr., in an answer to the suit for divorce brought by the noted singer. Rapp charges in his bill, which is not sworn to, that Mrs. Rapp became infatuated with a policeman in Patterson and brought him to her home with her. He also charges that later she sent the policeman to Ann Arbor, Mich., to have his voice trained. He also mentions other women and mentions one special in connection with an investigation of a woman who had boarded a steamer on her way to Germany in 1911. He asserts that she tampered with his desk, investigated his bank account and opened his mail. The "affair" with the policeman continued at late as January, 1914, according to the husband.

A most interesting chaff talk on the subject of the supper before a large gathering of the Highland Congregational church in Westernport, Md., was given by the affair was held under the auspices of the members of the church and was presided by a dainty supper. At the conclusion of Mr. Stephens' talk, which proved very instructive, Miss Jane McFarland entertained with several pleasing violin selections. The supper was given under the supervision of the ladies of the church, the committee being as follows: Miss Louise Choate, chairman; Mrs. McIntire, Mrs. McKoy, Mrs. C. E. Witherson, Mrs. Watters, Miss Ruth, Mrs. E. C. Smithurst, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. George, Arthur, Mrs. C. E. Sayare, Mrs. Arthur Armistead, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Garfield and Mrs. Cushman.

The attendance at the supper, food and entertainment of the First Baptist church society, conducted at the church vestry in Middlesex street last night, was very large and the receipts of the evening were very substantial. The church vestry was handsomely decorated for the occasion, the predominant colors being orange and black, while the booths on which were displayed various articles on sale at reasonable prices, also presented a very pleasing appearance. The entertainment program consisted of numbers by Miss Eda Borchardt, Miss L. B. Borchardt, Miss Laura, Miss Louise Long and Miss Eda Jord. The supper was in charge of Mrs. R. E. SELLING OLD BLOCKS
NOT GOOD BUSINESS

Charlie Morse Says City Should Not Sell Old Paving Blocks—
Merrimack Mfg. Co. Bought
200,000 of Them

There has been some question as to whether Commissioner Morse would have enough re-cut blocks to pave Gorham and Westford streets. Mr. Morse stated today that all the old blocks on hand have been recut and that there are 157,000 in Newhall street to be used on the Gorham street job.

"We have recut all the old blocks in sight," said Mr. Morse, "and as fast as we take the old blocks from Gorham street we will recut and relay them. I think we will have blocks enough to do both jobs. In years gone by the street department has sold old blocks to outsiders and it doesn't look to me like very good business policy to sell old blocks for two cents apiece that are worth three cents to the city. About 200,000 blocks were sold to the Merrimack Mfg. Co. a year or two ago and the company has paved its yard with these blocks. I could use these blocks to very good advantage at the present time and as long as I have anything to say about it the city will not sell any more old blocks. I expect to start the paving work on Gorham street in a few days and according as the old blocks are taken up they will be recut."

"We have everything in readiness for the work. We experienced some delay in getting the necessary stone screens, but they have arrived and now I want to mention the steam rollers about which so much has been said in the newspapers."

"One would infer that unnecessary money was being spent in the repair of rollers, but that isn't so. I don't suppose that I will spend the remainder of my life on this job and it might have been good policy for me to have used the rollers in their rickety condition, leaving the cost of repairs for my successor to shoulder. This course was suggested to me, but I feel an interest in the rollers because some of them were purchased either by me or through me, and in order to save them I know that they would have to be repaired."

"In the days when these rollers were

BIDDY DRUGGED

To Gag Cackle—Thieves
Scientific in Pullet
Plucking

A man out Varnum avenue way has been losing hens and chickens of late and he allows that the chicken thieves are scientific in pullet plucking. He told the police today that he had read about an organized band of chicken thieves operating in the vicinity of Boston, and he believes the gang has found its way to Lowell. The Varnum avenue man calls them "liddy druggers" and he said, he says, that they use a peculiar drug that makes a startled hen roost as quiet as a grave. The Varnum avenue man told the police that he had been listening for disturbances in his hen house, and had remained awake a night to catch the thieves, but as far as he knows was concerned, they were nothing doing. In the morning, however, he would find that a few of his best chickens were missing and there nothing will knock it out of his head that the thieves use some powerful anesthetic in order that they may raid poultry sheds without fear of the victimized chickens raising an alarm.

SEIGEL DIVIDEND
BOSTON, May 7.—Creditors of the Henry Seigel Co. were prevented from receiving a one per cent dividend today by the objections of the owners of the Seigel store property, who claimed that the rent should be paid first. The dividend amounted to $125,000. The matter was placed in the hands of a master and will be adjusted in a few days, it is said.

—O'Shaughnessy Confers With Sec.
Bryan at Washington

WASHINGTON, May 7.—President Wilson found time in the midst of wedding preliminary festivities at the White House today to confer with Secretary of State Bryan for a few minutes on the Mexican crisis with particular reference to mediation. Secretary Bryan announced after the conference that American delegates to advise with the South American mediators had not yet been selected. It was reported in diplomatic circles that John W. Foster, former secretary of state, is being considered among others to represent this country. The arrival in Washington of Nelson O'Shaughnessy, former charge of the American embassy at Mexico City, aroused considerable speculation as to the returned envoy's future status but nothing concerning his future was considered today. President Wilson will see Mr. O'Shaughnessy tomorrow.

THE CONSTITUTIONALISTS
WASHINGTON, May 7.—Carranza's attitude toward mediation, which temporarily at least has eliminated the constitutionalist chief from general negotiations aimed at settlement of Mexico's civil war, was declared to have been revealed today by his official report of a vigorous rebel military campaign marked by significant victories. His declaration to submit his country's internal troubles to preliminary negotiations was based in part at least on rebel successes in a sweeping southern movement. Carranza transmitted to Rafael Zazuaran, interior minister in the constitutionalist cabinet now in

WINTER WHEAT
First Official Estimate of Size of Crop Issued Today
WASHINGTON, May 7.—The first official estimate of the size of the crop of winter wheat was made today in the May crop report of the crop reporting board, United States department of agriculture, issued at 2.15 p. m. The report shows the condition on May 1 of winter wheat, rye, meadow lands and pastures; the percentage of spring plowing and spring planting completed.

given according to whether the condition of the wheat on May 1 was above or below the average change. Winter wheat: The average condition of winter wheat on May 1 was 95.5 per cent. of a normal; compared with 95.6 per cent. on April 1; 91.9 per cent. on May 1, 1913, and 85.5 per cent. the average for the past ten years on May 1. The area of winter wheat remaining on May 1 to be harvested was about 5,287,000 acres, or 1,115,000 acres less than the area planted last autumn. The condition on May 1 is indicative of a yield per acre of approximately 17.8 bushels, assuming average variations to prevail thereafter. On the estimated area to be harvested this would produce a final crop of 650,000 bushels, compared with 523,551,000 bushels harvested in 1913; 329,515,000 bushels in 1912; 430,656,000 bushels in 1911; and 434,142,000 bushels in 1910. The return of the crop probably will be above or below the figures here

MAZATLAN, MEXICAN WEST COAST
CITY NOW IN HANDS OF THE CONSTITUTIONALISTS

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Mazatlan, the Mexican west coast city, surrendered today to the constitutionalists, according to the dispatch received by Adolfo Carrillo, Carranza's representative in this city. There was still fighting, the dispatch added, General Guerrero driving a part of the federal garrison toward the waterfront.

Gen. Tellez, the federal commander, sent word to the constitutionalists that he could do nothing but surrender.

CENTRAL AMERICAN REPUBLICS

WASHINGTON, May 7.—A denial that President Cabrera of Guatemala is endeavoring to bring about the unification of the Central American republics was made in a statement by A. C. Garcia, Guatemalan consul today. "Several daily papers," Consul Garcia said, "recently published articles alluding to His Excellency President Cabrera, as being instrumental in bringing about the unification of the Central American republics. I do not wish to argue on either side; all I want to do is to correct most emphatically the statements. I know as a fact that His Excellency is in no way interested in such a move. "Future generations will I believe, attempt such a move, but it will be years before it can be brought to a satisfactory issue, if ever."

WHAT SEPT. FARRINGTON SAYS

Sept. Farrington relative to the threatened accident at the crossing at the Middlesex depot this morning, says that Conductor Sanger and Motorman Lane did just the right thing under the circumstances. He states also that a brakeman was sent up the track to flag the approaching train, but on looking back he saw that the electric car had been backed off the crossing, so that it was unnecessary to flag the train. Mr. Farrington states that at no time were the passengers in danger. The conductor on the car was Robert Sanger and the motorman J. Lane.

VETERAN FIREMEN'S BALL

ENJOYABLE EVENT HELD AT ASSOCIATE HALL WITH LARGE ATTENDANCE

The widely advertised and very enjoyable dance of the Enter Vets took place last evening in Associate hall and was in every way a grand success. The present social season has seen many remarkable gatherings, but it is doubtful if any of them has had anything on that of last night, the 16th annual ball of the association.

A very delightful concert preceded the dancing, Miner's orchestra rendering selections from "William Tell" and the "Butler Vets March." The dancing floor was taxed to its utmost capacity by about 200 couples. The beauty of the ladies' gowns deserve special mention. The intricate steps of the latest dances were shown, but even the most fastidious could find nothing at variance with the high standards of good taste. The galleries were packed by persons who though not dancing took delight in watching the dance floor, where beauty and fashion reigned.

VICIOUSLY ASSAULTED

ONE OF JOHN F. SAUNDERS' MEN ASSAULTED WITH INTENT OF ROBBERY

Andrew Brown, of 33 St. James street, a teamster employed by John F. Saunders, the Gorham street marketman, was struck over the head with an iron bar last evening while repairing the harness of the horse which he had been driving and as a result one Andrew McMahon, who is said to have been riding with Brown at the time, is now at the police station booked for assault with intent to commit robbery.

Although the teamster received a severe scalp wound he was able to drive to a nearby house where he telephoned to the manager of his store. His wound was then treated by Dr. Mahoney.

The alleged assault occurred on Ford street, near the end of West street, according to the story told by Brown to the police. He claims that he was driving along Westford street with a number of orders in his wagon when Andrew McMahon, who is but 16 years of age, accosted him and wanted a ride. As the two were slightly acquainted, Brown agreed to take him onto the seat and everything went along all right until they had turned into Steadman street, which runs through a lonely woodland with the houses several hundred yards apart.

According to Brown's story, a piece of the harness became untied while they were driving along this street and he got out to mend it, leaving McMahon on the seat. Hardly had he been kneeling on the ground a minute when, it is claimed, he was struck on the head. Turning around he saw the McMahon, but standing behind him with an iron bar ready to hit a second time, he claims, he called for help and this frightened his alleged assailant, who turned and ran away. Although dazed the young man managed to reach a telephone to summon help.

The police were notified and after several hours of searching arrested Andrew McMahon on Adams street, where he lives.

AMONG THE TOILERS

Anthony Doyle who is employed at the American Hide and Leather Co., will spend his vacation as usual in the White mountains.

Mr. Frank Young, who is the machinist's organizer, is out of the city today, but will return in time for the "ball" tonight.

The Trades and Labor council will meet tonight in their hall on Middle street. All members are requested to attend as the meeting is an important one. President Timothy Bourke will address the meeting.

Walter Lyons, employed at the Hamilton Mills, is the manager of the popular South End baseball team. He avers that his team will give them all a grand showing this season on the diamond.

Ed. Quinn, who is employed by the Whitall Manufacturing company, is some manager of sports. He managed the Lowell Five basketball team in their quest for the championship of the city. There is some good material at the C. Y. M. L. for baseball.

The hall of the Y. M. C. E., one of Lowell's leading societies of working young men, will undergo a complete overhauling in the near future. They expect to spend about $200 on a new library which, when finished, will be an up-to-date as any in the city. All of these improvements were thought out by President William King.

A lively discussion over the merits of the Lowell Textile school was overheard by the writer at a local society last evening and at times the debate waxed pretty hot. The question arose over a young man saying the teaching received at this great school of learning would be of little or no benefit to a graduate after leaving school. There were many who took the same stand the young man took and they put up some stiff arguments until a stranger put in an appearance, a former student at the school. He told how he happened to start and told of the results achieved. The stranger said he started as a common mill hand and how he is the assistant superintendent in a large worsted mill. He said that any man, young or old, who had a calling for textile work should exert himself, wake up as he expressed it and if he could not attend the day session to attend the night session at the Lowell Textile school. He said that results would certainly be satisfactory. There is no question but the Lowell Textile school is the greatest school of its kind in the country.

Carpenters 1610 Meet

The Carpenters local 1610 met in Carpenters hall, in the Russell building last evening and business of importance was transacted. Four new members were initiated and one application for membership was received. The local is planning for a big outing to be held in the summer.

President Antoine Bellefleur addressed the meeting and his remarks were very instructive. Everything is going along nicely, the treasury being in the best financial condition of its long period of existence.

Ring Spinners and Fixers

The Ring Spinners and Fixers' union held a largely attended meeting in their hall, 22 Middle street, last evening. New members are going in at every meeting, seven being admitted last night. It was decided to run a big "smoker" May 27th in the spacious quarters of the union. The admission was fixed at 25 cents. All unions are cordially invited to attend, as the best speakers that can be procured will address the gathering. This union is on a sound financial basis, and although young is progressing rapidly every day.

Probe at Wakefield

That the Haywood Brothers & Wakefield company is having much of its work done at the Salem jail and that it has been furnishing raw material to two other penal institutions, were statements made yesterday by Harry Thwaites, secretary of the Read and Rattan Workers' union, a the investigation of the Wakefield strike by the state board of conciliation and arbitration.

In the Wakefield town hall, Frank H. McCarthy, New England organizer of the American Federation of Labor, was the other witness heard at the opening session of the board that has begun an exhaustive investigation into the cause of the strike. It was stated that in its many conferences with the managers of the ration factory the company officers told the union men that one of the chief reasons why it could not advance wages was because of its competition with convict-made goods.

About 500 persons, men and women, most of them strikers, attended the meeting in the town hall. All factions of the strikers, including the I. W. O. workers, were present at the hearing. Thwaites, armed with much technical information, opened the case for the strikers, recited his story of the strike and told of the manner in which the work of his department was done.

Fall River Bread War

A rate war on bread is threatened as a part of the campaign of the out-of-town bread manufacturers to retain their grip on the local trade, says the Fall River Herald. In retaliation, local bakers threaten to withdraw their supply of pastry if Fall River grocers persist in trading away from home. Thus, a few more chapters, with footnotes and addenda, are added to the somewhat unusual and interesting war of loaves in this city. Many issues are expected to enter the conference of bakers and grocers tomorrow night in Weaver's hall.

It is a three-cornered fight that is being waged between the grocers and the bakers in and out of the city, and a fourth element is threatened from labor sources.

The history of the affair begins with the inception of a campaign on the part of the local Master Bakers' association to elude the exorbitant bread trade, and for a time it looked as though Fall River's stock of life would be exclusively manufactured here. But there were nine objections. The Central Labor union declined to endorse local made bread until the union label was carried thereon; the union label was promised, the bakers banding into a union, but the label lingered in forthcoming; some of the Master Bakers said that other Master Bakers were cutting prices, and offered to prove it; the out-of-town bread dealers refused to withdraw and threatened to flood the city with bread wagons ready to deliver the food in response to the morning roll-call from house to house; the bakers threatened to stop supplying pastry to grocers who bought out-of-town bread; out-of-town bread makers promptly promised to supply pastry as well; the foreboding began to cut prices; then the row started.

It looks now as though the lingering difficulty with the Central Labor union had about waned, inasmuch as the union label has been supplied and is being put on the bread. But it is with heated breath that the masters await the endorsement of organized labor upon the local product.

It is definitely known that three of the four big out-of-town concerns supplying bread here have virtually promised to increase their service. If the bread war goes any further, and claim they can practically if not entirely smother local trade. One of the largest of the concerns, operating two delivery wagons at present, in addition to its supply source where bread is called for promises to put in town 12 more wagons and deliver bread from house to house. Another threatens to start a combine of the out-of-town concerns whereby the price of bread will be continually reduced until the local men surrender.

Inasmuch as the out-of-town bread is a profitable proposition for the grocers, it is to be doubted if the local bakers will gain much ground at tomorrow night's meeting, and certain grocers who have viewed the situation from many angles are confident that the meeting will be worth the price of admission.

Transparent Aeroplane Cloth

Aeroplane cloth is manufactured by several mills in this country, and although the yardage demand is not large it may be expected to increase steadily, and the development of a new transparent cellulose sheeting for aeroplanes opens a new field for textile specialists.

It is claimed that at an altitude of between 500 and 1500 feet, only the framework is dimly visible, and this and the outline of the motor and pilot and passengers present so small an area to rifle and gun fire that, at the rate of speed at which aeroplanes are flown today, accurate aiming at such surfaces becomes practically impossible. There are also secondary advantages in the use of such transparent sheeting in the construction of aeroplanes. For one thing, it enables the pilot to keep an eye upon the interior framework of the planes and to detect at once any straining or fracture of the ribs, etc. Another advantage is that the highly polished smooth surface reduces friction.

Instead of using ordinary cellulose sheeting, the Emallite firm has what might be termed a reinforced sheeting consisting of two layers of Emallite with a sheet of silk tulle between them. The tulle being specially treated to render it transparent.

The tulle liner strengthens the material and also prevents it sagging or warping between the ribs, so that by its use it is quite possible to obtain a smooth and regular surface on the planes. The tensile strength of the material is about 5 to 10 kilograms per square millimeter section and a 35 millimeter sheeting is sufficient to insure a tensile strength of about 2500 to 3000 kilograms of the wing covering, a stress which is never attained with the best fabrics in use. The weight of this new Emallite material does not exceed 375 grams per square meter, which is but 40 per cent. more than the weight of good doped linen fabric as generally used, so that the increase of weight in the case of ordinary material is negligible.

Smooth, Hairless Skin

Follows this Treatment

(Toilet Tips)

Among the home-beauty helps, none perhaps is more important than that which will free the skin from obnoxious hairy growths. A simple method is to rub the skin of unsightly hairs is to use a paste by mixing powdered talc with water and applying for about two minutes, then rubbing off. With it comes every bit of hair and when the skin is washed, it will be firm and free from blemish. Results are more satisfactory if the delatone is bought in an original package.

CHELMSFORD TOWN MEETING

Editor Sun: Dear Sir—I had the pleasure of attending the town meeting in Chelmsford last Monday night, and it is certainly amusing to see how much the people out there will stand from their persisting object. I have been mixed up in politics for many years, but I never saw such a slandering given by a presiding officer as was given the promoters of the new school building at that meeting. I should advise the voters to brush up a little on Cushing's Manual and find out just what special privileges are allowed men who preside at their meetings.

When a presiding officer is so anxious either to kill a measure or explain to the meeting, without being asked, how much he knows, it would be a little better form, if he should appoint a man temporarily in his stead and get down on the floor of the meeting with the rest of the voters to do his talking. Yours for enlightenment,

Flower decorations which are a feature of today's wedding.

Elaborate Decorations.

The massive furniture of days gone by has been faced with pictures of Hawthorne, of not more ancient design. The floral decorations of the rooms on the first floor, on the second floor, on the third floor—will be marvelously beautiful. Slender vases of crystal, filled with flowers, will be placed on the mantels, and the walls will be decorated with flowers and white orchids, products of the White House conservatories. The fourth side will be backed with palms to form a background for great bunches of spring blossoms of cherry, peach and apple.

In the main lobby of the mansion, the Marine band orchestra of fifty pieces, under the direction of Lieut. William H. Sandeman, will render a program of music specially selected by Miss Wilson.

To the strains of Wagner's inspiring wedding march from Lohengrin, the wedding party will proceed to the main staircase from the apartments above. Miss Margaret Wilson and Mrs. Sayre, the bride's sisters, will be maid and matron of honor. Two charming little maids, Miss Sally McAdoo, the five-year-old daughter of the bridegroom, and Miss Nancy Lane, the daughter of Secretary and Mrs. Franklin R. Lane, will attend the bride as flower girls. They will be attired in exquisite white frocks, exactly matched.

President to Escort Bride.

The bride will be escorted to the Blue Room by her father, the president of the United States. At the beautiful entrance hall of the White House, the bride will be met by the president and Mrs. Wilson. The bride will be escorted to the main staircase from the apartments above. Miss Margaret Wilson and Mrs. Sayre, the bride's sisters, will be maid and matron of honor. Two charming little maids, Miss Sally McAdoo, the five-year-old daughter of the bridegroom, and Miss Nancy Lane, the daughter of Secretary and Mrs. Franklin R. Lane, will attend the bride as flower girls. They will be attired in exquisite white frocks, exactly matched.

An informal reception will follow the ceremony, after which the bride and groom will be seated at a table in the Blue Room. The bride will be escorted to the main staircase from the apartments above. Miss Margaret Wilson and Mrs. Sayre, the bride's sisters, will be maid and matron of honor. Lane, will attend the bride as flower girls. They will be attired in exquisite white frocks, exactly matched.

The Bride's Gown.

The bride's gown is a superb creation of ivory satin, adorned with many yards of Empress Eugenie lace of soft and elegant design. The gown has a sweeping train, several yards in length. The rath which softly drapes the bodice, is drawn into a point below the shoulders, leaving a V-shaped opening both back and front. Soft folds of tulle finish this opening, and there is a tunic of tulle made on the new long lines, and the sleeves, which are long, are made of tulle mousseline. The lace is applied with exquisite grace. It is draped over the right shoulder, and crosses the bodice in a sweeping line to the left side of the waist, where it is caught with a spray of orange blossoms. Below the waist line it falls as a border to the tulle tunic. A novel feature of the lovely costume will be the bridal wreath of orange blossoms in day effect, from which the long tulle veil will be draped.

Necklace of Diamonds.

Practically the sole ornament to be worn by the bride will be a necklace of diamonds, the gift of the groom. Miss Wilson will carry a wonderful shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, white orchids and fern fronds.

More than a century of romantic White House history will form a background for the wedding.

ARE WRINKLES MORE COMMON?

Because life is more complex—because women are interested in many more things than they used to be—because dividing a day among household duties, politics, clubs, charities, society, business and personal care is a strenuous thing—and strenuous life makes marks upon the face, the woman of today who wants to look right has long since started to aid Nature in her uneven fight and many of the wisest and best have decided upon this economical vegetable jelly cream as the simplest, wisest, remover and skin stimulator. It protects the surface of the skin and brings the blood to the surface where it performs its upbuilding work. Just get from your druggist an ounce of almond, put it into a fruit jar and add half a pint of water and two tablespoons of glycerine. Let this mixture stand for several hours, stirring occasionally during this time. Before retiring apply rather thickly and allow it to dry. It will harden rapidly and when applied, you will note a slight tightening of the skin. In the morning remove with hot water and note the immediate effect.

SURVIVORS OF BURNED STEAMER AT BOSTON

Franconia Brings in 13 Members of Crew of Columbian—Several Suffering From Burns Hurried to Hospital—Cause of Explosion

BOSTON, May 7.—When the Canadian steamer Franconia arrived today bringing 13 members of the crew of the burned steamer Columbian, rescued from a boat south of Sable Island, several of the survivors were still suffering severely from burns and all showed the effects of exposure. The body of Chief Steward Matthews, who died from burns while in the open boat, also was brought by the Franconia.

James Proctor, the wireless operator of the Columbian, expressed the opinion that spontaneous combustion in the cargo of coal and junk caused the fire. He said he was awakened by an explosion shortly before midnight Sunday night and when he rushed out on deck the vessel was in flames.

The saloon passengers of the Franconia, among whom was Raymond Belmont, son of August Belmont of New York, assisted in giving first aid to the survivors, provided clothing for them and subscribed to a fund for their relief.

Survivors Dazed.

The 13 survivors were too far dazed to give any detailed account of their escape from the burning ship and their escape from the burning ship and their escape from the burning ship.

Adrift 40 Hours.

The boat hung for a few minutes by the falls, the men finding their way to the raft and the raft to the shore. The boat hung for a few minutes by the falls, the men finding their way to the raft and the raft to the shore.

Operator Badly Burned.

When the men were picked up they were hurried to the best state rooms on the Franconia and were not disturbed except to take nourishment. Dr. Nathan, the wireless operator, was so badly burned and exhausted that it was not until he reached port that he expressed any desire for food.

As soon as the men have sufficiently recovered they will be sent back to London, either from here or from New York.

Before being taken ashore all the seamen asked to see Captain Miller of the Franconia, to whom they expressed their gratitude for what he and his officers had done for them.

FORMER ENGINEER OF COLUMBIAN TELLS HOW BLAZE IN COAL CAUSED EXPLOSION.

This spontaneous combustion in the coal bunkers caused the fire that led to the destruction of the Columbian, is the belief of Fourth Engineer Stanley Partington of the Columbian, who was formerly one of the engineers of the ill-starred craft.

Engineer Partington, who arrived with the Whitfield from Liverpool yesterday, was recently transferred to his present vessel from the Columbian. He was familiar with every nook and corner of the burned vessel's engines and, judging from the wireless reports, believes that the explosion occurred in the coal bunkers.

Started in Coal Bunkers.

"I figure that the fire started in the coal bunkers. Often a smoldering fire in a ship's coal bunkers will flare up at an unexpected instant, and before the small blaze can be gotten under control, a vigorous conflagration will be in progress."

"The captain's son said that his father was hurrying forward amidships to call him in the hour of danger, and that he fell into the blazing hold. That was old man Connor, who had been with the Columbian for 10 years. He lived in London when ashore, and his son Tom often tried to get him to give up the sea."

"The Columbian was a triple expansion engine steamship, and her engine and boiler rooms are as familiar to me as my own home. The catastrophe must have had its beginning outside of the machinery of the big freighter."

"Charles Robert, chief engineer of the Columbian, is a very good friend of mine. I am very sorry to hear that Chief Steward John Matthews was one of those who perished."

LOWELL TEXTILE SCHOOL

HON. JOHN N. COLE OF ANDOVER

Graduates of Evening Classes Receive Diplomas—Lowell Boy Receives Alumni Chemistry Prize

The exercises of graduation of the evening classes of the Lowell Textile school were held last evening. There were 37 graduates in all, 35 from Lowell, 2 from Lawrence and the remainder from surrounding towns.

The principal speaker of the evening was Hon. John N. Cole of Andover. Mr. Cole went even a little further than Mr. Cumstock in portraying the advantages and possibilities of vocational training. Such training, he asserted, will be the redemption of New England, which now is pretty largely given over to manufacturing.

His speech was a model of the kind of address that should be given by a man of his position. He spoke of the great value of vocational training and said of the Lowell Textile school that it is the most complete school of its kind in the world. Europe, which has been specializing in schools for many years, does not possess a textile school as thoroughly equipped as the Lowell school.

Prior to the coming of the vocational school, he said, all young men and women were turned out of the same kind of schools. Yet, it was manifest that all young men and women were not made to receive the same kind of education. He said that the result of lumping all pupils together in particular. That sort of training which makes incompetents of many.

Just at the present time there is about to be a great impetus given to manufacturing in New England. The imminent opening of the Panama canal will bring New England 20 days nearer South America. To New England, with its hives of industry, will be given an opportunity to compete with the other manufacturing centers of the world. The opening of the canal will mean much to the textile industry. It will mean the shipment of millions of yards of cloth each year to the South American countries where, before, only a comparatively small number of yards were sent.

The men who are qualifying for positions of greater responsibility in the textile industry will be given greater chances to develop than ever before. There will be greater demand for the manufacture of cloth, greater demand for men in positions which will be created by the great trade in cotton goods which have hitherto been merely skimmed by American manufacturers.

After Principal Eames had made the presentation of the diplomas to Samuel Jennings Nichol and a selection by the orchestra, Mayor Dennis J. Murphy made the presentation of diplomas. The mayor spoke a few words of advice and encouragement to the graduates. "In the years to come," he said, "there will be times when you will be threatened with discouragement. Remember, you go out into the world, not as captains of industry, but as workers. And you will not be captains of industry tomorrow, nor next year, nor for several years. But you are giving yourselves a better opportunity to rise than many others. When interest slackens because of discouragement, happiness, just throw on more facts to the fires of your spirit and your hope, and drive hard again at your goal. If you do

AGAINST CONDUCTOR OF BAR HARBOR EXPRESS MAY BE DROPPED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 7.—The charges of manslaughter brought against Conductor Grace C. Adams of the Bar Harbor express as a result of the wrecking of his train at North Haven on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad last September by the White Mountain express, will probably be dropped, it is learned today. Twenty-one persons were killed by the wreck and the coroner held as criminally responsible Adams and his flagman, Charles Murray, and Engineer August H. Miller of the White Mountain express. Murray was given a suspended sentence. Miller was found yesterday not guilty of involuntary manslaughter by a jury in the superior court.

It had been previously stated that Adams would not be tried until a later term of the superior court. It is now said that counsel for Adams has been informed that the charges against him will be held.

VERDICT FOR $20

Given By Judge Fisher in Case of Keyes vs. Burns of High Street Fire Station

Judge Frederick A. Fisher, who heard the evidence in the case of Henry J. Keyes vs. J. Edward Burns, has given a verdict for the plaintiff and assessed damages at $20. The action was brought as the result of a dispute which occurred in the High street fire station between the defendant, who is captain of the station, and the plaintiff, who was visiting there. The plaintiff alleged that he was ejected from the house without his overcoat and that Capt. Burns used unnecessary force in putting him out. Jackson Palmer appeared for the plaintiff and Mayor Murphy for the defendant.

BARRED FROM ATHLETICS

CHICAGO, May 7.—Roy M. Kiser, Abram M. Schmidt, Leo F. Rank and Eugene Schmidt will not be permitted to take part in athletics at Northwestern University during the remainder of their course in the dental college. Their expulsion from sports was ordered yesterday by university officials. Although ineligible under conference rules because they were freshmen, Kiser and Schmidt played on the varsity baseball team in a recent game with Minnesota under the names of Rank and Schmidt. McEmerson McCosh, captain of the team, was dismissed from the university three days ago and Fred J. Murphy, former football player, was named baseball coach in place of Dennis Grady, because of the "ringing."

IS BALDNESS AMONG WOMEN INCREASING?

Wigs, colored or otherwise, rats, switches, transformations, curling tongs, sharp metal hair pins, artificial waving methods, singeing and a round dozen more strictly modern devices, have combined to ruin the hair of many women, so there is decidedly an increase in baldness, though lately the magazines and papers have rather stopped the advance of hair trouble by showing that simply air, sunshine and proper care will develop heavy, beautiful hair upon any head. Great care should be taken when washing the hair to not remove more than the excess oil from the head. A perfectly safe, economical, cooling, invigorating shampoo can be had by dissolving a teaspoonful cantilox, which every good druggist has, in a cup hot water. This mixture cleanses gently, yet thoroughly, and gives to the scalp and hair the vigor that insures scalp health and hair beauty. Cantilox shampoos make the head feel good and are very beneficial where hair is faded, dull and brittle, the regular use of which will greatly enrich the color of the hair and give to it a beautiful gloss and softness.

HOME RULE BILL IMPACT

Redmond Secures Promise From Asquith That it Will Pass Without Change—Concessions Later

LONDON, May 7.—John Redmond, the Irish nationalist leader, is understood to have opposed any negotiations for a compromise on the question of home rule for Ireland until the bill reaches the house of lords. Mr. Redmond had a long conference Tuesday with Premier Asquith on the question of a settlement and as a result of his opposition to negotiation, the government agreed to hasten the final stages of the bill in the house of commons, which will be completed the week after next.

The Irish home rule bill will thus become law as it stands under the operation of the parliament act, and should any compromises on the question of Ulster be arranged afterward as a result of negotiating between the leaders, an amending bill incorporating them will be passed immediately.

OPPOSES REPEAL OF TOLLS

Sen. O'Gorman Attacks Administration's Policy—Passage Will Compromise Country, He Says

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Senator O'Gorman, chairman of the inter-oceanic canal committee, and leader of the forces opposed to the repeal of the toll exemption clause of the Panama canal act, gave the senate today the legal, economic and political reasons for his opposition.

In a three-hour speech, the senator discussed exhaustively every phase of the subject. He discovered no ground in international law which would forbid exemption of American coastwise ships from toll payment, saw behind the repeal movement the hand of the railroads and declared that a failure to impose a tax would not be called a subsidy.

The senator warned his democratic colleagues that to repeal the exemption was to violate the pledges of the Baltimore platform and to reserve the verdict of the people when they elected President Wilson last November on that platform.

Senator O'Gorman said that inasmuch as former Presidents Roosevelt and Taft, and a preceding congress agreed that coastwise vessels should be exempt, another congress should think twice before giving its approval to the repeal bill, for it in turn might find itself reversed by a congress yet to be elected.

"This question of tolls," said the senator, "is but an incident in a great contest now in its initial stage, which may determine the control of the Panama canal for all time. The construction of the canal will rank among the world's wonders, but the opinion of mankind will pronounce the surrender of our sovereignty over it a colossal blunder and a triumph of British diplomacy."

"If there is a vague suspicion that diplomatic reasons require this national abasement, but my judgment, formed and based upon such information as is available, is that the gravity of our international relations has been grossly, though unconsciously, exaggerated. The American people want peace, but they fear no power on earth. Shadows cannot disturb a brave man. They should not alarm a brave man. They should not alarm a brave man."

"No senator questions the patriotism and high purposes of the president, but legislation is to be made dependent upon his will alone, no one can predict the mischief to which such a precedent will expose this government in future years. I believe that the passage of this bill compromises the dignity and honor of the country, and before the deed is consummated I enter my solemn protest against what I conceive to be a betrayal of the American people."

Senator O'Gorman further sought to show that exemption of American coastwise vessels is a wise economic policy; that if such vessels fall within the terms of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, exemption does not constitute a violation thereof and that the canal has been constructed on territory over which the United States is sovereign while the canal contemplated in the treaty was to be built on alien soil and therefore the treaty is inapplicable.

"Exempting coastwise craft from the payment of tolls," he continued, "will reduce the cost of shipping through the canal to a minimum, and thereby compel competing roads in the United States and abroad to reduce their rates to a competitive basis. The more expensive you make water transportation the greater latitude you extend to the railroads in the fixing of their rates. Place a toll on the domestic shipping and for every dollar you collect by way of toll you enable the railroads to make a corresponding increase in their rates. It was hoped by some that the exemption to the coastwise trade might be followed in the near future by a like exemption to the foreign trade, but deny this privilege to the coastwise vessels now and you make it forever impossible to confer it upon the ships engaged in overseas trade.

"I know it is said that free tolls will simply enrich the ship owner and confer no benefit on the producer and consumer. Well, if free tolls will not decrease the cost of the consumer, imposing tolls on the other canals of the country will not increase the cost of the consumer. I suppose you will make your system uniform. Perhaps this is part of a program to impose tolls on the shipping of the other canals of the country."

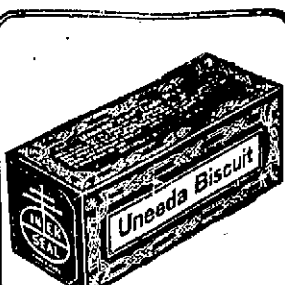

The senator argued that it is a well known principle of international law that conditions in any international agreement cannot be obligatory when the state of facts on which they are founded has ceased to exist or has been changed. He pointed out that when the United States became the sovereign of the Panama canal zone and it became United States territory, the Hay-Pauncefote treaty no longer bound the United States.

To back up this contention, the senator showed that England forfeited the Suez canal after Egypt became British territory and that when the great powers which were parties to the convention under which the canal was constructed, raised objection to British government relied upon this same principle of international law. He said that since Great Britain had recognized the American right to forfeit the canal forbidden in the treaty, it had recognized a changed condition.

TO SAVE EYES
Is the Object of This Free Prescription—Try it if Your Eyes Give You Trouble

Thousands of people suffer from eye troubles, because they do not know what to do. They know some good home remedy for every other minor ailment, but none for their eye troubles. They neglect their eyes, because the trouble is not sufficient to drive them to an eye specialist, who would, anyway, charge them a heavy fee. As a last resort they go to an oculist or to the five and ten-cent store, and oftentimes get glasses that they do not need, or which, after being used two or three months, do their eyes more injury than good. Here is a simple prescription that every one should use:

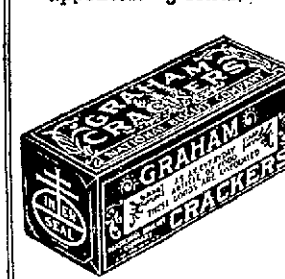

5 grains Optina (1 tablet)
2 ounces water
Use three or four times a day to bathe the eyes. This prescription and the simple Optina system keeps the eyes clean, sharpens the vision and quickly overcomes inflammation and irritation; weak, watery, overworked, tired eyes and other similar troubles are greatly benefited and oftentimes cured by its use. Many reports show that wearers of glasses have discarded them after a few weeks' use. It is good for the eyes and contains no ingredient which would injure the most sensitive eyes of an infant or the aged. And druggist can fill this prescription promptly. Try it and know for once what real eye comfort is.—Advertisement which makes the entire treaty imperative. "The treaty," said he, "must stand or fall as a whole. Under the doctrine recognized by the British government the treaty is inoperative as to the newly acquired territory of the United States, and the canal constructed on American territory at Panama, is more affected by the Hay-Pauncefote treaty than would be a canal built across any other part of the soil of the United States."

The senator in conclusion declared that the provision of the treaty that the canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and war of all nations, "cannot be interpreted to include coastwise ships, because vessels of commerce have been defined as those engaged in international trade."

PAY 1812 WAR DAMAGES

UNITED STATES MUST SETTLE—OWES $5,000 AND ALSO 93 YEARS' INTEREST

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The American and British Claims Arbitration tribunal, which has been in session here for several months, adjourned yesterday with the understanding that it shall reassemble some time in July in Paris, when announcement will be made of decisions in some of the cases recently argued. Further arguments are to be heard on cases remaining on the docket when the commission reassembles in Washington, probably next January.

Decisions were rendered on the closing day of the session on half a dozen cases, none of which involved any new points of international law. In the matter of the claim of the Gloucester fishing schooner Frederick Goring, Jr., for damages sustained at the hands of the Canadian authorities through her seizure, the tribunal confirmed a private settlement that had been made on the basis of the payment of $3000 to the owners of the vessel. An award of $827 was made to the Great Northwestern Telegraph company of Canada for damages to its cable in Quebec harbor by the anchor of the U. S. S. Essex.

For the illegal seizure of the British ship Lord Nelson, captured by the United States navy June 5, 1812, nearly two weeks before the declaration of war between the United States and Great Britain, the tribunal assessed $5000 damages against the United States with 93 years' interest.

Because its lighters in a rough sea in Manila Bay damaged the British collier Eastry in 1901, a judgment was rendered against the United States government for $19 pounds with interest at 4 per cent.

In the case of the Canadian government's seizure of the Canadian ship, which in collision with the U. S. S. Yantic in the St. Lawrence river in 1879, the commission found that both vessels were to blame, but in a different proportion, and assessed a damage of $1935 against the United States.

In the case of Elizabeth Cadenhead, who was killed accidentally by an American sentry shooting at an escaping prisoner near Fort Brady, Mich., the commission, while absolving the United States government from pecuniary liability, expressed the desire that it would favorably consider the payment of some compensation to the girl's family as an act of grace.

ENGINEER IS ACQUITTED

WRECK AND WAS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

NEW HAVEN, May 7.—August B. Miller, a locomotive engineer, charged with involuntary manslaughter, as the result of the wreck at North Haven last September, was found not guilty by a jury in the superior court here yesterday. The jury deliberated five hours.

Miller was in charge of the White Mountain express, which ran into the Bar Harbor express, causing 21 deaths. Miller, with flagman Charles H. Murray, and Conductor Edward C. Adams of the Bar Harbor train, were arrested on bench warrants last fall, after Coroner Mix had held them criminally responsible for the disaster.

Murray recently pleaded guilty and was sentenced to a year in jail, but the sentence was suspended. Adams is yet to be tried.

OPPOSE RATE RAISE

GOV. HAINES SAYS MAINE CENTRAL STOCKHOLDERS SHOULD TAKE THEIR LOSS LIKE OTHERS

BOSTON, May 7.—Governor William T. Haines of Maine came to Boston yesterday to protest against the proposed increase in freight rates on the Maine Central railroad. He told Special Examiner Edgar Watkins of the interstate commerce commission, who gave the shippers a hearing at the federal building, that it seemed to him a poor time for the railroad to place an added burden on business when industries all over the country were just emerging from depression. He suggested that the stockholders forego their 6 per cent. dividend and take their loss with the rest until increased business turned the loss into a profit.

LYNN MAN SUES BROTHER

SHOE MANUFACTURER SAYS HE WAS ATTACKED AND KNOCKED DOWN ON APRIL 11

SALEM, May 7.—Some of the mystery which surrounded the falling out between George W. Melanson and

Charles Gilbert Melanson, brothers of Lynn, who until recently were engaged together in the shoe manufacturing business in this city, has been in part explained through the filing of a suit in the office of the clerk of courts here. Charles appears as the plaintiff and George as the defendant. Charles says that April 11 his brother George, at Lynn, made an assault upon him, struck him and knocked him down. He says that he was made ill as a result of the treatment which he received at his brother's hands.

For Sallow, Wrinkled, Freckled, Pimpled Skin

If you have any sallowish, blotchy, or anything else to cover it up. Too often this only emphasizes the defect. Besides, it's much easier to remove the discoloration with ordinary mercurized wax. Applied nightly, the wax will gradually remove freckles, pimples, blackheads, moth-patches, sallowness, red or yellow blotches, or any surface eruptions. The affected cuticle is absorbed, a little each day, until the clear, soft, youthful and beautiful skin beneath is brought wholly to view. Ask the druggist for an ounce of mercurized wax and use this like you use cold cream. Remove in morning with soap and water. Many who have tried this simple and harmless treatment report astonishing results.

If bothered with wrinkles or crow's feet, a wash lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered exfoliate in a half pint with hazel will prove remarkably effective.

TINKERING THE CHARTER

When these who succeeded in getting Boston a new charter a few years ago drew up its provisions, it was unfortunate that they were not able to invent some legal device which would have made it politician-proof for already an urban has been made that may lead to conditions far worse than those which made a new charter desirable. Without any public vision for a change, influential leaders in the house and senate of the legislature have succeeded by means of a somewhat subtle suggestion and amendment which is not at all beyond what a business man might expect to find in a business machine for the city of Boston. That the change is not a mere patch, but of a nature which would make the city a more efficient and more progressive than it is at present, is a fact which is not at all beyond what a business man might expect to find in a business machine for the city of Boston.

denation of New York and in other parts of large cities. This accounts for the fact that boys who in Russia would have become God-fearing men become gamblers and thugs in New York.

All of this has a direct application to the city of Lowell for it is very apparent that our most connected citizens are striving with a will to get rid of the accumulation of bad habits and customs which have made the city a more efficient and more progressive than it is at present, is a fact which is not at all beyond what a business man might expect to find in a business machine for the city of Boston.

REFORESTATION

Following the adverse report of the state and means committee of the house, the Massachusetts legislature is expected to delay in a day or so on the bill which provides for purchase by the state of waste forest land in Massachusetts and its reforestation. The bill has the backing of the state board of conservation, the state board of trade, the Boston chamber of commerce, the Springfield board of trade and the Massachusetts forestry association.

The bill has been drawn up and supported by all these interests because of the alleged fact that three-fifths of the state is useless for agricultural purposes, being covered by growth not fit for use. Even these parts given over to wild growth have been permitted to deteriorate until nothing but a mass of brush is seen in many parts of Massachusetts. Over an million acres, it is said, are thus lying idle, being useless even from the point of view of those who believe in forestry in any or all its branches. Such a great area of useless and almost valueless land, much of which is priced at $5.00 per acre, could be rendered valuable to the state if scientific methods of reforestation were adopted. Some of the charges of the bill such as that which provides for convict labor may not seem desirable at the present time, but the aim of the bill is worthy and something like it will sooner or later be adopted.

PUBLIC SCHOOL CRITICISM

The concentration on the public school system of the country as described by the Joseph Smith at the annual conference of the Teachers' union in Lowell, has been a subject of much interest. It is not only a subject of much interest, but it is a subject of much importance. It is a subject of much importance because it is a subject of much interest. It is a subject of much importance because it is a subject of much interest.

Our state board of health has done a great deal of excellent work, but it is questionable if, for some reason or other, there is not a general feeling that its responsibility too often looks like mere suggestion, devoid of the mandatory power to have its demands obeyed. The great difficulty is to be overcome, but the body in question is more than able to do the other direction. This gives some force to the reorganization of the state board of health which has been favored by Governor Walsh. In New York there is a single-headed commission with an advisory board of experts and the results are said to be far more satisfactory than in Massachusetts. It is to be regretted, however, that in this state the board in question is often accused of political activity, for the scientific conservation of the public health should be something supported by the respect of all classes and considered entirely above reproach. The public would have far more confidence in a board that gave a firm decision and then demanded its immediate recognition. This has not been done in the relations of the state board of health with the health problems of Lowell and the carelessness and seeming indifference of the body in this regard, if it is general, may account for the alleged lack of public confidence on which the cry for reorganization is mainly based.

There is a certain feeling of relief following the reading of the fact that the state board of health and its reorganization is mainly based.

It has taken a hand in the strike of the employees of the railroad works at Wakefield, for everything was done for one of the industrial struggles which Massachusetts has come to regard with detestation. As usual there were the side issues of foreign enthusiasm, extreme leadership of labor agitators, the interference of strikers with strike breakers and the refusal of the manufacturers to treat with the strikers. Given all of these influences, the situation is like a battle waiting for the match. Now the activity of the state board with its dispassionate weighing of the claims and counter-claims of manufacturer and worker may be expected to cool down the threatened mob spirit and to submit the differences to the calming influence of reason and logic. Justice is far more likely to prevail when this method is adopted than when we have armed strikers on the one hand and armed state troops on the other. If only some means could be devised to have arbitration first instead of last, the labor dangers of the Wakefield board would be permanently averted.

PARK COMMISSIONER CHANGE

The unexpected retirement of Mr. Harvey B. Greene from the park commission after 11 years of conscientious, efficient and honorable public service will be regretted by a great many citizens of Lowell, and few men have deserved a greater word of praise after such a long period of faithful performance of duty. His expert knowledge added to his long experience made him in all probability the most valuable member of the board and the recent recognition of his services by the municipal council reflects not on him but on those who favored his retirement without reasonable cause. The parks have suffered many blows of late years due to a lack of recognition of their importance and a lack of co-operation between the various municipal bodies and the effort of Mr. Greene is another chance that does not portend good for the future. On the other hand it is only fair to assume that Mr. Herbert L. Russell will prove an active and able addition to the park commission, but no matter how well equipped he may be, it will be many years before he is fitted to take the place so honorably filled by Harvey B. Greene.

PUBLIC PESTS

Charity is the sweetest of all virtues but the charity that prompts the giving of a dime to the needy individual who generally looks like an ad for some brand of intoxicating drink, is the most ridiculous of all virtues. Who does not know the fellow that wanders a dime for a plate of beans or a nickel to get to North Chelmsford, or a quarter to buy a dinner for his starving children? One meets them in all parts of the city and occasionally with pity blended with disgust some soft-hearted individual gives the nickel or dime or quarter in order to get rid of their importunity. This spirit should not be encouraged for the tendency of the times is to associate all charities under one head and to help the deserving while weeding out the fraud and the

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system.

They do not check any dangerous action, men do not want any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping catarrhs are done away with by Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or disagreeable effects of any kind.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after years of study and practice among patients afflicted with bowels and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, you will know by their olive color.

Take one or two every night for a week and not only the bad breath and bad odor will be removed, but the bowels will be regular and the liver purified.

chronic drunk who begs for the price of his appetite's gratification. Those who give indiscriminately cater to undesirable beggars that are too often a public pest. By all means be charitable, good citizen, but in being charitable, do not be silly.

SOUNDING OF HORNS

People generally welcome the news that the police department will insist that all motorists turning Lowell corners must sound their horns or other warning devices, and that there is need for this regulation is most apparent. Automobiles and other drivers are careless to the extent that the municipal authorities are tolerant and the too great forbearance of the local police department in the past has not made Lowell safer for pedestrians. Now is the time, before auto traffic becomes too great to be easily handled, for the authorities to insist on the observance of all that safeguards the public, whether it be the sounding of horns and compliance with other rules that motorists are called upon to respect and observe in all well regulated communities.

Lowell is never brought home more strongly than during a Sunday car ride along the Centralville river bank. We may now reap miniature Merrimack but we cannot restore vanished opportunities.

Do the school teachers of Lowell recognize the fact that their enemy is far more likely to be the polished politician who makes pious promises than the critic who comes out in the open and strikes straight from the shoulder?

The refusal of a man like Richard Olney to serve on the federal board hints at the tragedy of old age—no matter how lonely its blessings are proclaimed.

DUFFY COMING BECKER TRIAL

Counselor for Western R. R. Com-missions Files a Brief Which Bitterly Arraigns Brandeis

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The interstate commerce commission had before it today a supplemental brief filed by Clifford Thorne, representing the Western railroad commissions in the advanced rate case, in which he bitterly arraigns Louis D. Brandeis, special counsel for the commission, who in his closing argument in the case last Friday stated that "on the whole, the net income in the operating revenues of the carriers in official classification territory are smaller than is consistent with their assured prosperity and the welfare of the country." Mr. Thorne asserts that Mr. Brandeis commenced his argument before the commission by conceding the position of the carriers on behalf of those whom he represents. Mr. Thorne says that he "repudiates in unqualified terms the concession made by Mr. Brandeis in his closing argument."

Mr. Thorne after referring to the questions the commission had before it in the case, says:

"This commission itself has a responsibility to discharge in determining the adequacy of railroad revenues within official classification territory, that is not met by any action or concession announced by special counsel. This duty is one solemnly placed upon you by our national government and it is one that you cannot and have not attempted to delegate to Mr. Brandeis.

"The special counsel was invited to emphasize any aspect of the case, deserving emphasis, but his duty was to present facts and not opinions.

"In spite of this specific instruction, the said special counsel exceeded all bounds of propriety in the premises and practically usurped the functions of the commission, announcing an opinion or conclusion on the only question finally submitted at the time and, further, he specifically advocated a particular theory for the disposition of the case."

Mr. Thorne refers to unpardonable attacks of Mr. Brandeis on the surplus cessant made by Mr. Thorne in his closing argument.

"That surplus to which Mr. Brandeis applied the epithet 'unusually,' he said, 'was precisely the surplus adopted after careful and deliberate consideration by the unanimous action of the commission in the former advanced rate cases.'" on the beach inside the breakwater was established and flights were made daily. Railroads, bridges and the Mexican troops were found torn up. It was definitely determined there were no mines in the harbor. Lieut. Sauley and Ensign Stutz were the assistant aviators to Lieut. Bellinger and made maps and reports."

OSHAUGHNESSY IS

AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge of the American embassy at Mexico City until United States troops seized Vera Cruz, arrived in Washington early today. With his family he was driven immediately to a hotel and planned to confer with Secretary Bryan later.

At his hotel Mr. O'Shaughnessy was besieged by interviewers. Later he dropped in on a few old friends at the Metropolitan club and then went to the state department and conferred with Secretary Bryan.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy assured inquirers that the papers of the embassy and his code book were still safely in his possession. As to his future he would make no comment, denying, however, that he had resigned.

AMERICAN AND TWO

BRITISH SUBJECTS KILLED

WASHINGTON, May 7.—One American and two British subjects have been killed at Vera Cruz. The bodies of the British subjects were found in the vicinity of Guadalupe. A Mr. Harrell, presumably a British subject, and several Americans are said to be held in the city.

Other Americans are safe. This information came in a dispatch from the British vice consul at Guadalupe to the British embassy today.

THE ENTIRE FEDERAL

GARRISON CAPTURED

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Confirmation of the capture of the entire federal garrison at Acapulco, Tepic, by the rebel forces, reached the state department today in a report from Consul Agent Keyes at Rosario.

VANGUARD OF REBELS

STARTS ON ITS MARCH

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The vanguard of the constitutional forces at Durango and Toluca has started on its march to begin the campaign for the capture of Saltillo and Zacatecas, according to a report received at the state department today from Consul Hamm at Durango.

TEN AMERICANS IN

JAIL AT TONALA, CHIAPAS

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Ten members of the Smith family in jail at Tonalá, Chiapas, are in danger of their lives because of Mexican resentment of their part in the recent killing of three Mexicans at San Pedro, according to a report today from Minister Leavell in Guatemala. The Mexicans were members of a rural guard and invaded the Smith home at San Pedro to disarm the occupants. In the fight which ensued the Mexicans were worsted but the Americans were later arrested.

CARRANZA AND STAFF

LEAVE FOR DURANGO

CHIHUAHUA, May 7.—Gen. Venustiano Carranza, head of the constitutional government, left here last night for Durango. He was accompanied by his staff, but the executive offices of the rebels still remain here. The visit to Durango is in connection with financial affairs.

THREATENED AT TAMPIO

WASHINGTON, May 7.—In response to a inquiry from the British embassy here regarding conditions at the Cuernavaca and the safety of British and Americans there, the following dispatch from its superintendent was received today:

"Unhappily, concentrated stores, both safe, Americans all safe. One American and two British killed at other mines in Jalisco. All mines shut down completely. Randall and seven Americans cut off by bandits at Mascota and Huachuapilla. Only 15 Americans in Jalisco."

The dispatch did not mention the names of the American and British killed.

Disquieting news also was received at the embassy from Tampico. Both federal and constitutionalists threaten to interfere with the British and American oil operators who were turning to the oil districts to resume operations under the promise of protection from both sides. The Mexicans have notified the British commander that no one will be allowed to land unless all warships are withdrawn.

NAVY AVIATORS

The navy department today issued a report describing work accomplished by the navy aviators in which the work was done in typical of the navy aviators, the report said. "After making a record in getting away when ordered into service from Pensacola, the Mississippi, under the command of Lieut. Commander H. C. Mustin, arrived at Vera Cruz at 3 p. m. Friday, April 24. At daylight the next morning the Mississippi anchored in a berth assigned by Admiral Badger and five minutes after the anchor was dropped Lieut. Bellinger was in the air in a flying boat and making a scouting trip. Both aeroplanes on board were ready the night before and could have immediately taken to the air. It was necessary, however, to report to Admiral Fletcher on shore and get his orders for scouting."

within official classification territory, that is not met by any action or concession announced by special counsel. This duty is one solemnly placed upon you by our national government and it is one that you cannot and have not attempted to delegate to Mr. Brandeis.

"The special counsel was invited to emphasize any aspect of the case, deserving emphasis, but his duty was to present facts and not opinions.

"In spite of this specific instruction, the said special counsel exceeded all bounds of propriety in the premises and practically usurped the functions of the commission, announcing an opinion or conclusion on the only question finally submitted at the time and, further, he specifically advocated a particular theory for the disposition of the case."

Mr. Thorne refers to unpardonable attacks of Mr. Brandeis on the surplus cessant made by Mr. Thorne in his closing argument.

"That surplus to which Mr. Brandeis applied the epithet 'unusually,' he said, 'was precisely the surplus adopted after careful and deliberate consideration by the unanimous action of the commission in the former advanced rate cases.'"

It was definitely determined there were no mines in the harbor. Lieut. Sauley and Ensign Stutz were the assistant aviators to Lieut. Bellinger and made maps and reports."

OSHAUGHNESSY IS

AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge of the American embassy at Mexico City until United States troops seized Vera Cruz, arrived in Washington early today. With his family he was driven immediately to a hotel and planned to confer with Secretary Bryan later.

At his hotel Mr. O'Shaughnessy was besieged by interviewers. Later he dropped in on a few old friends at the Metropolitan club and then went to the state department and conferred with Secretary Bryan.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy assured inquirers that the papers of the embassy and his code book were still safely in his possession. As to his future he would make no comment, denying, however, that he had resigned.

AMERICAN AND TWO

BRITISH SUBJECTS KILLED

WASHINGTON, May 7.—One American and two British subjects have been killed at Vera Cruz. The bodies of the British subjects were found in the vicinity of Guadalupe. A Mr. Harrell, presumably a British subject, and several Americans are said to be held in the city.

Other Americans are safe. This information came in a dispatch from the British vice consul at Guadalupe to the British embassy today.

THE ENTIRE FEDERAL

GARRISON CAPTURED

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Confirmation of the capture of the entire federal garrison at Acapulco, Tepic, by the rebel forces, reached the state department today in a report from Consul Agent Keyes at Rosario.

VANGUARD OF REBELS

STARTS ON ITS MARCH

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The vanguard of the constitutional forces at Durango and Toluca has started on its march to begin the campaign for the capture of Saltillo and Zacatecas, according to a report received at the state department today from Consul Hamm at Durango.

TEN AMERICANS IN

JAIL AT TONALA, CHIAPAS

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Ten members of the Smith family in jail at Tonalá, Chiapas, are in danger of their lives because of Mexican resentment of their part in the recent killing of three Mexicans at San Pedro, according to a report today from Minister Leavell in Guatemala. The Mexicans were members of a rural guard and invaded the Smith home at San Pedro to disarm the occupants. In the fight which ensued the Mexicans were worsted but the Americans were later arrested.

LEAVE FOR DURANGO

CHIHUAHUA, May 7.—Gen. Venustiano Carranza, head of the constitutional government, left here last night for Durango. He was accompanied by his staff, but the executive offices of the rebels still remain here. The visit to Durango is in connection with financial affairs.

THREATENED AT TAMPIO

WASHINGTON, May 7.—In response to a inquiry from the British embassy here regarding conditions at the Cuernavaca and the safety of British and Americans there, the following dispatch from its superintendent was received today:

PRICE CHANGES SMALL

AT OPENING—LONDON CABLED

LOWER PRICES—THE MARKET CLOSED EASY

NEW YORK, May 7.—Although London cabled lower prices for American stocks there was no corresponding depression in the home market at the opening today. Price changes were small and uneven, with most of the popular shares on a parity or slightly above yesterday's close. Chesapeake & Ohio was again heavy, adding a point to its loss of yesterday. Canadian Pacific was the only other important stock to lose more than a small fraction. Rock Island collaterals continued to advance selling more than five points above their recent low figures.

Experimental offerings brought out no large volume of long stock but the undertone was heavy through the morning, despite occasional rallies. Advances from the steel trade were conflicting. United States Steel was relatively firm notwithstanding expectations that the forthcoming tonnage figures will make a poor showing. Imminence of this statement as well as the copper and tung reports, tended to restrict speculation.

Interruption of selling continued in the afternoon and although the amount was not large quotations were forced at times under yesterday's close only to be brought up again on covering. Selling converged on stocks which have been heavy of late. London reported selling by New York and Paris in that market but foreign sales here were the smallest of the week, hardly footing up 5,000 shares.

The market closed easy today. Movements in special stocks awayed the list alternately up and down, with the trend lower in the late dealings. Publication of the excellent government crop statistics failed to overcome the effect of a 2-1-2 point break in silver. Cotton and prices declined on increased selling for both accounts. Net changes were trivial.

COTTON SPOT

Cotton spot closed quiet. Middling, 13.00; Middling 2017, 13.75; 1600 bales.

BOSTON MARKET

BOSTON, May 7.—Light trading marked the opening here on the stock exchange today. The market was fairly active and rose a point at noon. Massachusetts Mining advanced to 45.

AT ELIOT CHURCH

Baraca Class Presented

Comedy "Turn of the Road"

The Baraca class of the Eliot church made its first public appearance in the "Turn of the Road," a college drama of two acts—full of path and vim, at the Eliot church last evening before a good sized audience. The young men showed careful and efficient training and each proved himself equal to his part. The cast was as follows:

Ezra Strong, Emil Hartford; Robert Colfax, captain of foot ball team; Chester E. Chase; Hiram Skinner; Woodstock Farmer; James G. Dorr; Daniel Hawkins; from back woods of the North; Theodore; Thomas; Morris Samuel; John Campbell; Edward; Edward; Campbell; E. Orrell; Thomas; Toodles; R. Chesley; M. Donaldson; E. Dougherty.

James Dorr as Hiram Skinner, proved himself a typical farmer, full of energy and life, when he sought to recover his "lost cow," the whereabouts of which was known to the college boys. Emil Hartford as Ezra Strong was a forcible character whose duty seemed to be to supply "brains" for some of the delinquents.

Arthur Thompson as Dan Hawkins surely showed his way to trace "the cow" by "his eyes." His part was excellently taken as was the part of Thomas Toodles by Raymond Chesley—the youth who stuttered—and surely he did to perfection and created no end of amusement. Hiram Skinner and Chase as Captain of the foot ball team were equally good—in fact each man seemed adapted to the part taken. Especial mention should be made of the solo work of Mr. Paul Bennett of Arlington, a tenor of rare voice and who sang very cleverly numbers at intermission. He will be heartily welcomed to the Eliot church again.

A candy table was presided over by Misses Harriet Kew and Helen Farrington. The officers of the Baraca class are as follows: President, Mr. Royal P. White; vice president, James G. Dorr; secretary, Carl Hilton; treasurer, Arthur Thompson; manager of play, Chester E. Chase; director, Rev. Herbert E. Parker.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

The members of Lowell council, K. of C., will hold their regular meeting at their hall in Anne street this evening. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock and important questions will be discussed. On Sunday, May 24, the local council will go to holy communion in a body at the 2 1/2 mass at St. Peter's church. After mass there will be a breakfast at the hall together with an address by a prominent speaker.

THEOPHILE LAMARRE BETTER

The many friends of Theophile Lamarre of 155 Salem street, will be pleased to hear that he is recovering from a severe operation performed upon him a few days ago at the Mary Hitchcock hospital in Haverhill, N. H. Mr. Lamarre has been ill for the past year and a half, and he had consulted several local physicians, none of whom had a chance with the operation. However, the operation was performed at the above hospital and the attending physicians hope their patient will return to his home in this city in a couple of weeks.

Will Surely be Among Starters in Race Here on May 30

Jimmy Duffy, the winner of the recent Boston marathon race and conceded to be the fastest amateur marathon runner living, will surely be among the starters in the long distance race which the Hunting Cricket club will run on May 30. Word to this effect was received from Hamilton, Ontario, where Duffy resides. Officers of the Hunting club are elated over the entry of the world's champion marathoner.

When the best-footed Hamilton runner takes the local race, the local race of athletics heretofore will have an opportunity of watching the work of a human running machine. Duffy, who is built like one of the ancient Olympians, loves over the ground with the grace of a deer. Also he is a good runner. He is a very good sprinter, ready to be loosed at the end of every race, whether the race be one of two miles or of twenty-five. This he demonstrated in the recent Boston marathon, when after alternating the pace with Fahn, the French Canadian runner, for twenty miles, he set the last three miles and finished an easy winner in almost record breaking time. Had the weather conditions been favorable on that day, so competent judges declare, Duffy would have lowered the B. A. record. The Hamiltonian has won the Yorkers N. Y. marathon, the Ward marathon at Toronto and has twice won the Hamilton Herald marathon. This latter race, the Canadian classic had been won by John Caffrey, the only two time winner of the B. VERY IMPORTANT FIGURES WEDDING AT WHITE HOUSE THIS EVENING

Showing Where Government Money Goes for River Development—This State Slighted

The question of an appropriation of $1,000,000 for the development of the Merrimack river is quite small when compared with the appropriations made by other states in reference to the development of their waterways.

Statistics from the United States government reports furnished by United States Senator A. J. Russell, president of the national river and harbor congress, are very interesting and show at a glance the importance of waterway developments and the direct effect upon the location of industries and the increase in the production of industries.

50 years ago New York stood first among the states of the union in the annual value of their manufactured products, leading Massachusetts by $28,842,770. Today New York leads Massachusetts by $1,578,967,000.

50 years ago Massachusetts stood second among the states of the union in the annual value of their manufactured products, leading Pennsylvania by $2,859,081. Today Pennsylvania leads Massachusetts by $1,136,213,000.

50 years ago Massachusetts led Illinois by $141,241,722. Today Illinois leads Massachusetts by $285,745,000—a total gain for Illinois over Massachusetts of $906,928,722 in a generation.

Waterway Improvement Expenditures

From 1817 to 1914—57 years—New York has spent the enormous total of $44,310,952.

Pennsylvania has spent $95,541,000.

Illinois has spent $91,270,054.

What Massachusetts Has Done

From 1820 to 1914—94 years, $16,000,000 and over $12,000,000 of this on Boston harbor.

ITS INCOME STATEMENT FINDS BRIDE IN FLAMES

DEFICIT FOR MONTH IN MOST OF THE DEPARTMENTS OF THE N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R.

BOSTON, May 7.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company has issued its income statement for the month of March last and for the nine months ending March 31, which they compare with the corresponding periods of the previous year.

Despite a decrease in operating revenue on the New Haven proper of $152,691 for the month of March last, the statement shows an increase of $125,357 in gross income, or a little better than 2 per cent. The actual net corporate income shows a deficit of $24,708 which is 12 per cent less than the deficit of 1913.

Of the subsidiary companies whose figures are given in the current statement, only two—the Connecticut company and Housatonic Power company—show actual gains in net for the month of March last. Both these companies, however, show a loss in net for the nine months. In the case of the Westchester, the nine months' figures show a decrease in the deficit of $25,000, the present deficit being $299,650.

DEFEAT SUFFRAGE BILL

HOUSE OF LORDS REJECT MEASURE BY VOTE OF 104 TO 60—MANY SPEECHES DELIVERED

LONDON, May 7.—The woman's suffrage bill was rejected last night by the house of lords by a vote of 104 to 60.

Speeches in favor of the bill were delivered by Baron Courtney of Penwith, the Earl of Lytton and Baron Willoughby de Broke, while Baron Weardale, the Marquis of Crewe and Viscount St. Aldwyn spoke against it.

Viscount St. Aldwyn in the course of his speech said the arguments for the extension of the parliamentary suffrage to women, which were based on the results obtained in those states of the United States where it had been tried did not apply in the United Kingdom, because in those states men were in the majority, while in the British Isles they were in the minority.

Consequently, he argued, the granting of the parliamentary vote to women in the British Isles would mean the handing over of the destinies of the country and the empire to a female electorate, which was a perilous step to take.

Among those who voted for the bill were Viscount Morley of Blackburn, the Archbishop of Canterbury and the bishops of London, Hereford, Bangor and St. Asaph.

Those who voted against the bill included the Marquis of Lansdowne, Viscount Esher, the Marquis of Salisbury, the Earl of Halsbury and the Duke of Northumberland.

Miss Eleanor R. Wilson, 14th Bride of the White House, Weds Sec. of Treasury W. G. McAdoo—To Wear Necklace of Diamonds

WASHINGTON, May 7.—With a plain circle of pure gold, typical of the quiet elegance of the ceremony, Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, youngest daughter of the president of the United States and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, will be married at 6 o'clock this evening in the White House, to William Gibbs McAdoo, secretary of the treasury.

The simple and impressive wedding service of the Presbyterian church will be pronounced by the Rev. Sylvester Beach, pastor of the church in Princeton, N. J., attended by the president and Mrs. Wilson and their family. The ceremony, while it is to be notably elegant in all of its appointments, will be witnessed by the smallest company that ever attended so important a function in the White House. The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, the members of the cabinet and their wives, relatives of the president and Mrs.

Wilson, and of Secretary McAdoo, and a few intimate personal friends of the bride and bridegroom, comprise the list of guests.

Ceremony in Blue Room

The ceremony of this evening taken place in the historic Blue Room, the middle apartment of the suite on the south side of the White House, between the East Room and the State Dining Room. It has been the scene of more brilliant social functions than any other room in the mansion. It is in the Blue Room that the president formally receives his guests at White House receptions. In recent years, its furnishings and appointments have been changed entirely. Its oval form has been retained but the scheme of decoration and furnishing has been modernized.

The color plan is blue, but not the blue of a robin's egg as of old, but a dark shade of French blue. The walls are paneled in rich corded silk of the same shade, affording an artistic background for the wonderful spring.

HAYTI DODGES GUNS

PAYS $62,000 INDEMNITY AFTER ULTIMATUM FROM BRITISH DIPLOMATIC REPRESENTATIVE

PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti, May 7.—The National bank last night advanced to the Haytian government $62,000, the amount of the indemnity claimed by Mr. Peters, a British subject, whose sawmill had been destroyed by fire during the Le Conte revolution. The payment had been demanded yesterday in an ultimatum from the British diplomatic representative. The incident is now regarded as closed.

Consternation had been caused in the capital by the British ultimatum, whose time limit expired at 6 o'clock last evening and which was supported by the presence of the British cruiser Suffolk.

A joint session of the senate and congress was called immediately, but was soon dissolved owing to the inability of the legislators to reach a decision.

WEAR WHITE CARNATION

BOSTON, May 7.—Wear a white carnation next Sunday in tribute to your mother. It is Mothers' day, the second Sunday in May, and Boston, in common with cities and towns throughout the United States and many other countries, will do its share with citizens of all parts of the world to honor motherhood.

Special services have been arranged in all of the churches of the city and some time prior to Sunday Governor Walsh and Mayor Curley, following the custom of their predecessors in office, will probably issue proclamations calling for the co-operation of every man, woman and child in the commonwealth in the celebration of the day.

The day will be a holiday, yet not like Easter nor Christmas, nor like Labor day, nor the glorious Fourth. It is the holiday which every class and every race can observe regardless of religion, politics, or birthright. It asks only one thing, that you pay honor to your mother and wear a flower in tribute to her.

For four years earnest, sincere people have striven, and not vainly, to make Mothers' day a universal holiday. Governors and mayors the country over have issued proclamations announcing it and urging upon every one to join in observing it.

SAY DURYEA IS INSANE

NEW YORK, May 7.—Attorneys for Chester B. Duryea, who shot and killed his father, Gen. Hiram Duryea, a retired millionaire starch manufacturer, early Tuesday, appeared in police court in Brooklyn today and waived examination so that the case could go immediately to the grand jury.

Duryea is now in Bellevue hospital, where he was taken on Tuesday night, saying: His family and physicians believe he is hopelessly insane.

A despatch which Mr. Egan saw recently in a Boston paper stated that Walter Kilduff, a hardware merchant of Mexico City, was held by the authorities at Azusa Calientes for ransom, together with men named Emery and Smith, who were captured. Mr. Egan says that the name Kilduff is probably an error, probably one made in the transmission of the story by cable.

CONFESSED HIS GUILT

Frank J. McMahon, the 17-year-old boy who was arrested early this morning in a house on Fletcher street, opposite Franklin street, by Lieut. Freeman, Sergt. Ryan and Patrolman Deering, on a complaint charging him with assault with intent to commit robbery, was brought before Judge Enright in his private office this forenoon and it is said that the young man made a complete confession, stating that his whole intention was to rob the man whom he struck. The case was continued until Friday, May 15, and the boy was fixed at $200.

The story that Young McMahon told the court and Supt. Welch this forenoon will undoubtedly be further investigated by the police. He said that he had lived in this house on Fletcher street for only about three weeks but for the past two or three years has been in Lowell practically all of the time. For some time he was employed as "kitchen boy" in a local hotel, and on last Sunday evening stole a coat and the coat pocket of a cook while the latter was busy in another part of the hotel. When asked by the court what had become of this money he said that he lost five dollars in less than one hour shooting crap and had spent the remainder in different ways.

It seems that for the past few days the youth has been clubbing with different teamsters employed by John F. Saunders and in this way learned that Andrew Brown of St. James street, a teamster, was to go to Chelmsford early yesterday afternoon. He told the court that he waited for Brown on Westford street and asked him if he could accompany him for the ride. As Brown had seen the boy around the station at least on two different occasions, he agreed upon taking him over his route and the two traveled together in the afternoon, driving all over Chelmsford Centre. The story of the assault is told in another column. Some of those who have talked with the youth think he is not right mentally. It appears he seemed anxious to tell the police all the damaging things he could think of against himself. It was also stated this forenoon that Andrew Brown, who sustained the scalp wound, is resting very comfortably although weakened by the blow and loss of blood. His cut was attended to by Dr. Matthew Mahoney and it required 10 stitches.

An altercation that started near the corner of Suffolk and Market streets between N. D. Spyropoulos and Antonios Sampanicos last Saturday ended in blows and as a result the latter was arraigned before Judge Enright in his private office this forenoon charged with assault and battery. William D. Reyan appeared for the complainant and Daniel J. Donahue for the defendant.

It is claimed that the two men met on the street near the corner of Market and Suffolk streets and had not been talking long before an argument was opened. The complainant alleges that Sampanicos struck him on the head and clenched him by the shoulder. After reviewing the evidence the court ordered the defendant discharged.

Patrolman McCarthy and Lane were called to a house on Taylor street last night where it is claimed Michael Shugrue and Mary McCue were creating a disturbance. When the pair were arraigned in court this morning both admitted that they were drunk but Shugrue denied that he was doing any harm to a housewife and said that he was in his own room. Patrolman McCarthy testified that some one made a complaint about the noise coming from the upper part of the house and upon investigation found both of the defendants in the same room. The man was sentenced to the house of correction for the term of four months and the woman to jail for a like period.

Joseph Paquette was arrested last evening on Merrimack street by Patrolman Crowe and booked at local quarters on the charge of drunkenness. He was fined $10. John H. Gately was given a suspended sentence of three months in jail for drunkenness and William F. Cogan was ordered to pay a fine of $15 for the same offense. Jas. Fitzgerald, a second offender, got off on a six dollar fine. Probation Officer Statutory reported five releases.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, wish to express our sincere thanks to the many kind friends and neighbors, who by their kind acts and words of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings endeavored to lighten our great sorrow in the death of our dear husband and father. (Signed) Elizabeth Dyer and Family.

POPULAR FRENCH CLUB

ASKS CLUB LICENSE FOR ELKS' OLD QUARTERS—LARGE MEMBERSHIP ASSURED

At a recent meeting of the City of Lowell Americans club a committee was appointed to look into the advisability of leasing the quarters formerly occupied by the Lowell lodge of Elks in Middle street and use the rooms for quarters for the club. At last night's meeting of the club the committee made a favorable report and it is probable that the new quarters will be opened within a couple of weeks.

A revision of the by-laws of the club was made and now the membership fee will be $3 a year instead of $1 as it was previously. The club has filed an application with the license commissioners for a club license and the members are now awaiting the decision of the commissioners.

There are now 150 members on the membership roll and it is believed that with the opening of the new quarters the number of members will be at least doubled. The officers of the club are E. N. Gendron, president; H. H. Thibault, recording secretary; Ferdinand Rousseau, financial secretary and treasurer; Joseph Provost, Traffic Bureau and Maxime Lapin, directors. The committee appointed to make arrangements for other quarters consisted of the board of directors and the president and vice president. The club was recently incorporated and it is the intention of the members to purchase new furniture as soon as the change in location is made.
